OAS Peace Try Gains

Yanks Seal Off Rebel Stronghold

2-Hour Talk Held With Insurgents

By ROBERT BERRELLEZ
SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — Negotiators of the Organization of American States reported headway Monday night toward a peace agreement in the Dominican revolt as U.S. forces sealed off the rebel stronghold in Santo Domingo.

Ricardo Colombo of Argentina, head of the OAS peace committee, said the negotiators had made "a great deal of progress toward a solution of the crisis" after a two-hour session with the rebel military command. He declined to give details.

Will Show Firmness, Says LBJ; Congress In Mood for Request

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson asked Congress today to act immediately on a bid for an extra $700 million to support United States' operations in Viet Nam and the Dominican Republic.

Johnson said that providing this money would be a demonstration of "a firm and irrevocable commitment of our people and our nation, whatever the risk or whatever the cost" in the two trouble spots half a world apart.

Reviews Conditions
The chief executive gathered members of the House and Senate Foreign Affairs, Armed Services and Appropriations committees in the White House East Room to outline his request and review conditions in both Viet Nam and the Dominican Republic.

In Viet Nam, he said American firmness "may already have brought us much closer to peace." Yet he saw no possibilities at the moment for negotiation and said that the United States will continue to hit the North Vietnamese Communists.

Can't Rope 'Em In
With respect to getting the adversaries to a conference table, Johnson said in Texas fashion: "I'm a reasonably good cowboy and I can't even rope anyone to bring them in."

Congress appears to be in the mood to give Johnson what he wants in military spending to support his actions in Viet Nam and the Dominican Republic.

Pledge Quick Action
Chairmen of the House Armed Services and Appropriations groups immediately pledged prompt action on the President's request.

"Mr. President," said Rep. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., armed services chairman, "we will be calling an immediate session. Let us know what you want."

Rep. George Mahon, D-Tex., appropriations chairman, said his committee would meet this afternoon and hoped that Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara could be present with the money request.

"We feel that we can take action today and tomorrow and dispose of this matter expeditiously," Mahon said.

In discussing the Dominican situation, Johnson again hit at what he called efforts of Communists to seize control of the revolutionary faction supporting the return of ousted President Juan Bosch.

Airs Another Threat
And, cryptically, he said that Monday there were indications of at least one revolution in another country. He said it did not come through, although intelligence reports had indicated it might. He did not identify the country.

In the Dominican Republic, he said, the rebel forces contain men who long have had records of Communist affiliation and insurrection.

The United States, he said, intends to keep its forces there and hope that the Organization of American States will come up with some plan for an interim government and eventual free elections.

As for his bid to Congress for more funds, Johnson urged the committees to meet today if they could and said the administration was prepared to send witnesses to testify this afternoon in support of his request.

The Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce makes every effort to obtain accurate and up-to-date information on all major questions of general interest to enable them to decide the type of action or support they will render. The breakfast is being held just prior to the public hearing on the Uptown Urban Renewal project.

Mississippi Is Swirling Over

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Mississippi River pounded weakening dikes today in the Hannibal, Mo.-Quincy, Ill., area while water swirled over thousands of acres of farmland and through communities from Burlington, Iowa, to Hannibal.

The river is expected to crest today at 24.6 feet in Hannibal and 24.5 feet in Quincy.

The Mississippi cut a 10-foot swath half way through a dike on the Illinois side of the river, threatening 42,000 acres including the town of Hull, six miles to the east.

Mediators Ready To Enter Tieup Of N.Y. Projects

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — State and federal mediators prepared today to take steps toward resolving separate contract disputes that have tied up building projects at both ends of New York State.

30 Unions Involved
In Eastern New York, construction employers moved to close $250 million worth of projects because, they contended, "chaotic conditions" within unions made operations impractical.

The 30 unions involved hold jurisdiction from Catskill to Glens Falls and from Canajoharie east to the Massachusetts and Vermont state lines. The unions claim a membership of 10,000 men in 10 building trades. A spokesman for the Building Trades Council, which represents the unions, said all 10,000 were off the job today. He called the stoppage a company lockout and said the unions were asking the National Labor Relations Board to find the employers guilty of failing to negotiate in good faith.

To the west, strikes in Cattaraugus, Allegany, Chautauqua and Steuben counties halted about $15 million in construction work. Several million dollars in projects also are involved in a Niagara County dispute.

John Hans, executive secretary of the State Mediation Board, said Monday night that the board could take "no truly affirmative action" (in Eastern New York) until we see whether there will be a shut down.

Hopes to Find Key
Across the state, a federal mediator said he hoped to find a "key" to solving the Southern Tier dispute when he meets tomorrow in Olean with representatives of builders and members of a hod carriers and laborers union with locals at Jamestown, Olean and Dunkirk. The union is the largest SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — U.S. and Vietnamese squadrons totaling 113 planes struck at Communist North Viet Nam today. A barracks area at Vinh Ginh was the main target.

Sixty-six U.S. Air Force jets and six Vietnamese propeller-driven fighter-bombers hammered the barracks, five miles north of the border, with 50 tons of bombs and rockets.

A U.S. spokesman described the raid as highly successful. He said all the planes in this and other attacks got back safely.

Meanwhile, four companies of U.S. Marines launched an offensive supported by tanks six miles southwest of the Da Nang Air Base. Two Marines were wounded, one seriously.

Details of the action were not immediately available, but at least one company of the Marines made heavy contact with the Viet Cong.

U.S. Navy jets made four small strikes against North Viet Nam Monday night. They claimed four trucks and nine freight cars were destroyed or damaged.

Two Skyhawk jets participated in each of the two raids at targets between 80 and 100 miles south of Hanoi. All planes returned safely to their 7th Fleet carriers.

The Southeast Asia Treaty Organization, meeting in London, went into secret session today to debate means of halting the mounting Communist menace in the Orient.

The United States charged at the opening session Monday that the fighting in Viet Nam is being escalated by the Reds from guerrilla fighting to head-on warfare. U. S. Undersecretary of State George W. Ball pleaded for more military help from other members of SEATO for the fight in Viet Nam.

Johnson, Withall Choice of Mayor For School Posts

Mayor John J. Schwenk today released the following statement concerning the Kingston City Schools (Consolidated) Board of Education election on Tuesday, May 4.

"I believe that the Kingston City Schools (Consolidated) Board of Education election May 4 should be of major importance to the citizens of this district. Considering the responsibility which this board has, each citizen should make every effort to be informed on the candidates and to use his right to vote Tuesday, May 4.

"I believe that the major issues of this election are that the balance of representation be maintained in this district, and that capable candidates are selected."

Quake Toll 43; Hundreds Hurt In San Salvador

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP) — Areas around San Salvador were evacuated today as earth shocks continued. Reports of the toll in Monday's quake ranged from 43 to 150 dead.

The government declared a state of emergency and started mass inoculations against typhoid and other diseases in the areas of heaviest damage.

Many Homes Damaged
Many homes were destroyed and at least 4,000 were damaged. Adobe shacks on the outskirts of San Salvador were hardest hit.

The official residence of U.S. Ambassador Raul Castro suffered about $35,000 damage. Castro, a former judge in Tucson, Ariz., said no Americans of the embassy staff were hurt.

The government put the death toll at 43 and said about 300 were injured. Other reports said as many as 150 were killed and 400 or more injured.

Reports received Monday night at the U.S. military headquarters in the Panama Canal Zone said there were 101 dead and 300 injured. A spokesman said no request for U.S. assistance had been received.

The quake cracked part of the runway of San Salvador's airport and damaged the new multimillion-dollar terminal building.

Mayor Points Out State Money Is Not Passed Yet for City

Reports that the City of Kingston will benefit from huge increases in per capita state aid are misleading, according to Mayor John J. Schwenk, because the new state formula has not yet been passed by the State Legislature and no one knows when and if a new formula will be effective this year.

In a statement today the mayor said:

"I have been closely following the progress of legislation which would increase state aid to the city.

"To correct certain misinformation and an editorial of the air which have been brought to my attention, I want to make it clear to our people that the legislation which would make these increased funds available to the city has not yet passed the State Legislature.

"Based upon the recommendation of the Commission on State-Local Fiscal Relations, the City of Kingston is scheduled to receive in 1966 (next year) an additional $87,048.50 in per capita state aid, based upon a full year.

"Whether any of this increase will be received this year is unknown at this time, since pending legislation establishing the formula recommended by the State Commission, as well as the effective date thereof, has not as yet been passed."

The city will receive $221,644.50 per capita state aid for 1965 as noted under anticipated revenues in the current city budget.

Kingston Has 74 More Acres at City Point Area

The City of Kingston has taken title to an additional 74½ acres of land in the Kingston Point area for establishment of the John F. Kennedy Park.

This is the second parcel acquired for the park. Recently a 12½ acre area was acquired from Bernard Wolter and there remains still another parcel to be acquired from The Hutton Company as soon as title matters can be taken care of.

The 74½ acres acquired from the New York Central Railroad for the Kingston Point park area lies between Delaware Avenue and North Street and includes the lagoon.

It is hoped that a portion of the lagoon will be developed into a marina.

Candidates Are Heard, Will Choose Two Today

Only 28 people attended the last "Meet the Candidates" program at the Port Ewen School Monday evening to hear the four candidates for the two vacancies on the Kingston City Schools (Consolidated) Board of Education.

A canvass of the vote in the Kingston School District Consolidated will be made by members of the Board of Education at the May meeting of the board to be held Wednesday at 8:30 p. m. in the George Washington School.

Voters of the district will go to the polling places in the 18 school election districts today to elect two board members. Polls will be open until 9 p. m.

To Announce Hearing
The school trustees tomorrow night also are expected to announce the date for a public hearing on the 1965-66 budget.

Last night, the moderator, Oakley Maynard, read a variety of questions submitted by the audience after each candidate had explained both his qualifications and reasons for running.

The first question went to Ellsworth Johnson of Kingston, who was asked about self-seeking special interest groups. Johnson did not name them, but reaffirmed the fact that he was running to protect the taxpayers from the influence of groups who did not have the best interests of the whole district at heart.

Morton Kamen of Hurley, who received the bulk of the questions during the program, was asked to give an example of the new outlook he would bring to the board. Kamen noted that he

Counts 10 Tremors

The first shock came at 4:02 a.m. San Salvador newspapers said its force registered 7.5 on the Richter scale. Other shocks came at 9:02 a.m. and at noon. A ham radio operator said he counted 10 tremors.

The quake apparently centered in San Marcos and in Santo Tomas, about 10 miles south-east of San Salvador. Extensive damage was reported in towns near the capital.

San Salvador was ruined by earthquakes in 1854 and in 1873 and was jarred heavily in 1917. The city, founded four centuries ago, has a population of about 160,000.

His Aim: World Domination

Hitler's Dream Leaves Germany Enslaved Pawn After Destructive War

By LOYAL GOULD

BERLIN (AP) — History's most destructive war, which ended just 20 years ago, had its roots in a tiny, crackpot party from southern Bavaria which rose for a time to mastery of most of Europe.

It took over Germany on Jan. 30, 1933, when a former Austrian vagabond named Adolf Hitler took the oath of chancellor.

Hitler bragged that his regime, which he called the Third Reich, would last a thousand years and make the Germans rulers of the world.

Instead, it passed into history after little more than 12 years and 3 months. In that time, it brought death and enslavement to millions and left Germany a broken, occupied country, soon to become a pawn in the East-West struggle.

The man who started it all was a tectotaling, nonsmoking vegetarian who was born April 20, 1889.

Hitler never finished high school, spent his boyhood dreaming of an artist's life and lived off his widowed mother until he was 19.

At 20, he set off for Vienna to realize his artistic ambitions. But on failing to pass entrance examinations to accredited schools, he spent four years in flophouses.

He also made his first contact with ideas that were later to change the fate of Europe—pan-Germanism and anti-Semitism.

He finally left Austria for Munich where he volunteered for World War I.

Took Over Group

Wounded twice and twice decorated for bravery, Hitler returned to Munich after the war and joined up with 25 Bavarians who had organized what they called the German Workers party.

It was a group violently opposed to the democracy of the Weimar Republic and to payment of war reparations called for by the Versailles Treaty.

It wasn't long before Hitler had changed the group's name to the National Socialist German Workers party —Nazi for short.

He quickly gained local fame as a speaker who could stir crowds to wild cheering at his tirades against democracy, the Jews and the victors of World War I.

He soon attracted a mass of followers, mostly young war veterans looking for a cause. They included:

Rudolf Hess, who was to become Hitler's first deputy.

Fat, uniform-loving Hermann Goering, the last commander of famed Richthofen fighter squadron in World War I. He later was to head the Nazi air force.

Joseph Goebbels, the dwarfish, crippled skirt chaser and the Third Reich's propaganda boss.

On Nov. 9, 1933, 3,000 Nazis led by Hitler, Goering and former army chief of staff Gen. Erich Ludendorff, marched from the Burgerbrau Beer Hall to the center of Munich and into a detachment of armed police.

Nobody knows who fired the first shot, but the street soon was littered with 16 dead Nazis, three dead policemen and scores of wounded.

Jailed for Treason

The following year, Hitler was sentenced to five years imprisonment on conviction of treason for his leadership of the beer hall putsch. Less than nine months later, he was paroled.

During his imprisonment, he dictated his political, racial and leadership theories to Hess. The book, "Mein Kampf," or "My Struggle," became next to the Bible in this country's best seller. By 1940, six million copies had been sold in Germany alone.

By 1929, his party had 178,000 dues-paying members.

Despite initial success, Hitler's big chance came with the economic depression of the 1930s and the political divisions and weakness of the Weimar Republic.

With millions out of work, he promised to make Germany strong again, provide bread and work, wipe out the alleged influence of the Jews and refuse to pay the hated Versailles reparations.

By the end of 1930, the Nazis had jumped from Germany's smallest party to its second largest, with 107 members in Parliament, the Reichstag.

But even after becoming the country's largest party, the Nazis never succeeded in mustering more than 41 per cent of the popular vote in a free election.

The majority of Germans who opposed them were too divided among conservatives, Communists and Socialists to unite efficiently.

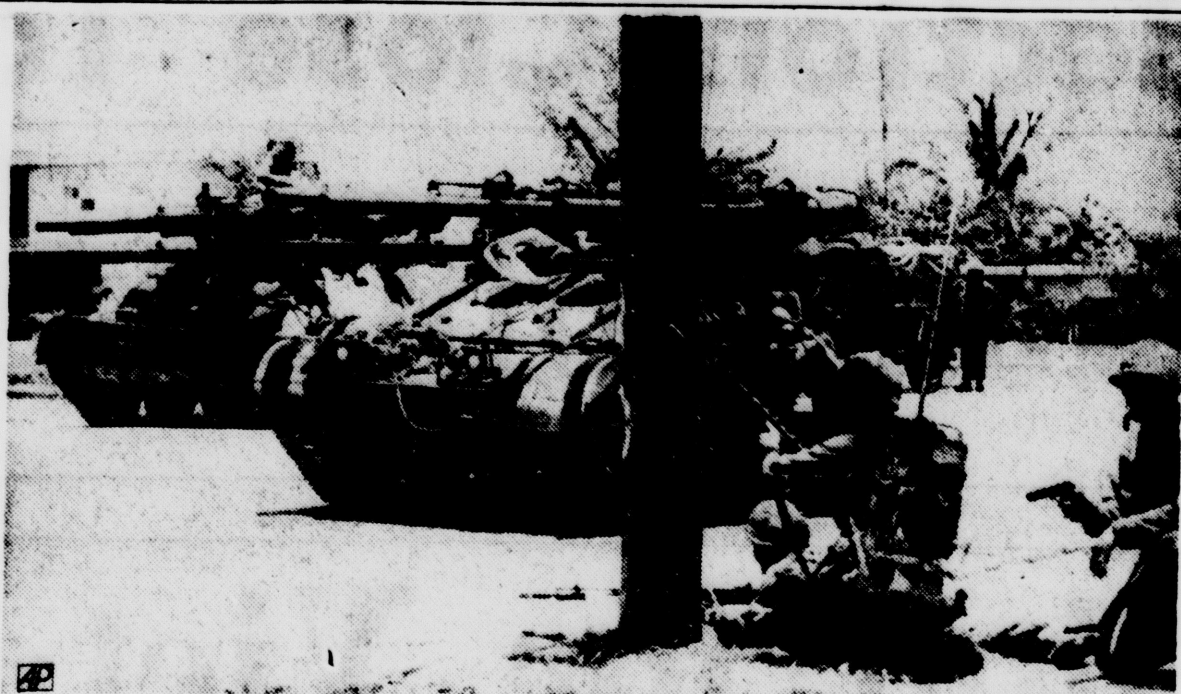

But because of the size of Hitler's following and out of a belief that he would bring order out of chaos, President Paul von Hindenburg named him chancellor on Jan. 30, 1933.

That night, thousands of jackboots and storm troopers marched in a torchlight parade through downtown Berlin.

Little more than six years later the bullies, the misfits, the opportunists and the misguided German nationalists who flocked to join the Nazi party would carry their fight to the battlefields of World War II.

There is a new coloring on the market for children's shoes. It comes in nine different colors, is nontoxic and, so important where youngsters are concerned, is also scuff-resistant.

Bill Against Increases In Medical Rates Ready For Governor to Sign

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—A bill that Gov. Rockefeller tailored to avoid increases in Blue Cross and Blue Shield medical insurance rates was ready for his signature today.

The Senate completed legislative action on the measure Monday, approving the bill 55-1 after rejecting an amendment offered by Sen. Seymour R. Thaler, D-Queens, chairman of the Senate Health Committee.

Basically, the approved measure would free more funds for payment of hospital bills. The legislation would reduce from 15 per cent to 5 per cent the amount of net premiums the plans are required to hold in reserve for emergencies.

Thaler said his measure would curb what he called hospital-dominant of Blue Cross boards by appointing six subscribers to each board as agents for the public.

Sen. Jack E. Bronston, another Queens Democrat, rejected Thaler's plan, declaring:

"We don't know that the Assembly will accept this bill again — with your change — or that the governor would sign it. We can't afford to take this chance."

The amendment was defeated, 23-31.

In other action at the Capitol: A bill to require that bread be sold by net weight, marked conspicuously on the wrapper, drew unanimous support from the Assembly and was sent to the Senate. The State Agriculture Commissioner would set rules for sales.

Assemblymen also passed and sent Senate-ward a measure to authorize the state to reimburse localities for taxes lost when property is removed from tax rolls for construction of state buildings.

The Assembly killed a bill to abolish the prospect of "destructive competition" as a ground for refusing a milk dealer's license. Upstate members of both parties argued that licensing more milk dealers would hurt those now in business and be of no ultimate help to consumers.

In the Senate vote on the Blue Cross and Blue Shield bill, the lone dissenter was Sen. George Metcalf, R - Auburn. He cautioned that "when we start pulling down these reserves, we are taking some dangerous steps."

Thaler has contended that hospitalization rates have been climbing steadily because there was not enough public representation on the board. His proposed "public agents" would have been appointed by the governor and legislative leaders.

Republicans objected that such a move would lead to government control of private insurance.

COUNTDOWN FOR ACCIDENT CLEANUP

The first step toward accident prevention is recognizing hazards. The next is eliminating them.

Local school children are learning to do both in a new Junior Fire Marshal safety program called "Accident Countdown." The program is sponsored by The Hartford Insurance Group and this agency in cooperation with local school and fire officials. It teaches children to recognize hazards, and record accidents in the home, their causes, and whether they are corrected.

We're proud of our part in helping support the Junior Fire Marshal safety program.

Won't you help, too, by looking over your home for hazards?

Worker Suffocates

WALTON, N.Y. (AP)—A furniture company worker was suffocated Monday when caught under a pile of wood shavings that he was trying to move into a bailing machine.

Investigators said the shavings apparently were stuck in a huge hopper and then fell over Marin Dean, 24, of Walton when he tried to loosen them.

Dean's body was found by another employee of S. J. Bailey and Sons.

Kept Secret From GOP*Democrats Struggle Today To Complete Redistricting

By ROBERT T. GRAY

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Harried Democratic leaders struggled today to complete their plan for redistributing Assembly seats. Republicans charged them with undue secrecy.

The latest report from the Democratic high command was that the Assembly lines would be completed by tonight.

This would allow little time for general study of the long-awaited proposal before a public hearing called on it for Wednesday.

The Democratic leaders announced originally they would have the Assembly lines completed by Sunday night or Monday morning.

The developments posed a new test of how long a U.S. District court overseeing the state's reapportionment efforts would countenance delay. The court could assume the job.

The court ordered last July 27 that the Legislature enact into law a reapportionment plan conforming with the U.S. Supreme Court's 1964 decision that both houses be apportioned on a population basis.

The federal court initially set April 1 as the deadline for producing such a law, then extended the time to May 5.

While Democrats may have reapportionment plans or recommendations ready, they had conceded previously that their measures would not be enacted into law by the Legislature by Wednesday.

GOP minority members continued to demand an opportunity to see the new lines.

Speaking for Republicans, Assemblyman Bruce Manley, Chautauque, a member of the GOP leadership bloc, asserted from the floor "you have been delaying continuously. All we have is promises, promises, promises."

GOP members are expected to raise the same objections of gerrymandering that Democrats raised to apportionment plans enacted at a special session of the Legislature, then Republican-controlled, last year.

The Republicans then enacted four plans, each designed to benefit the GOP in varying degrees.

The U.S. District Court invalidated three of those plans and upheld Plan A, the one least acceptable to the Republicans. Last month, the State Court of Appeals held that Plan A was unconstitutional.

Republicans have appealed those decisions to the U.S. Supreme Court but there has been no indication when—or if—that court will consider the GOP objections.

The federal court might appoint a master to draft a plan, or order an election at large if it assumes the job of redistricting.

The federal court set last July a timetable calling for a special legislative election this November under new legislative lines. Those elected would serve for one year.

A debate over reapportionment broke out Monday over a Democratic-sponsored resolution urging Congress to reject a proposed U.S. constitutional amendment that would limit the effect of the Supreme Court's decision.

The proposal before Congress would allow a state to apportion one house of its Legislature on a non-population basis.

The resolution was passed 33-22 and sent to the Assembly, where approval from the Democratic majority also was expected.

The Senate vote was along party lines, with one exception, George Metcalf, R-Auburn, voted for the resolution.

May Be Here for Years*Viet War Not Just Frontal Assault, Says Marine Major

By HAL BOYLE

DA NANG, South Viet Nam (AP) — The Marines are friendly at the front. Maj. Mark Moore is known as the hospitable host of Backbreak Hotel.

"Welcome to your home away from home," he said at the entrance of his command tent at the base of Hill 312 where U.S. Marines have thrust out their perimeter guard of the vast Da Nang airbase.

"All the conveniences you'd want including hot and cold running water," he pointed at a bag hung from some posts, and single or double sleeping bags.

Moore, 36, is a lanky 6-foot, 4-inch officer with tow-colored hair and blue eyes that crinkle easily into laughter. He is seeing his first battle action since serving 13 months as an aerial observer during the Korean campaign. He comes from Dallas, Tex., but his wife and four children now are staying in Carlsbad, Calif.

As operations officer of the 2nd Battalion of the 3rd Marine Regiment, Moore helped plan the first patrols to push out from the key airbase. It is from here that several types of planes strike at military targets in North Viet Nam.

So far, the Marine patrols have been conducted in hot and sticky daylight hours. But the enemy is likely to have its sleep disturbed in the future. "We like to work at night," said the major. "That's when the Viet Cong thinks he really owns the territory — and we want to show him that he doesn't."

Moore makes no attempt to belittle the fighting quality of the enemy.

"They like to pull surprises, and so do we. We hope to keep them off balance," he said.

ing their guns. They were as relaxed as if they were in a training area.

The command post was situated in thick, shoulder-high scrub in which bloomer bright yellow and purple flowers.

A few feet to one side of the tent was an open bunker banked with sandbags — just in case the enemy might hurl a mortar barrage.

Moore makes no attempt to belittle the fighting quality of the enemy.

"They like to pull surprises, and so do we. We hope to keep them off balance," he said.

"Until now we've really been on what amounts to a ground orientation program. We've just been running snatch patrols."

"The enemy knows what we are doing. They signal our movements by beating drums, flashing mirrors from the hillsides and by blowing whistles."

"We've had no trouble cooperating with the Vietnamese troops. We take some of them along on our patrols, and if we take prisoners let them do the talking to them."

The Marines have been well indoctrinated into the fact that this is as much a political as a military war. The patrols take along gifts of candy and school textbooks to distribute to friendly villagers.

"This is a whole new challenging role for us with a lot of challenging overtones," said Moore soberly. "We've always considered ourselves a shock outfit. But this is not just a frontal assault as in World War II."

"For the Marines merely to land and seize a position is no longer the answer. There's a new perspective to this warfare."

"It's a long-range problem, not an overnight deal. We may be here for years."

RATIONALE OF DRIVING

When it comes to lowering the traffic accident rate, only so much can be done by law. The rest depends on the drivers themselves. This is not a fatuous self-evident platitude it may appear to be. Taken seriously, it suggests a fruitful approach to a problem that grows worse as the number of cars on the road increases.

Even if traffic laws covered all possible driving situations and were always strictly enforced, even if there were 100 per cent driver compliance with the law, ideally something more would be involved. This "more" is that drivers comprehend the nature of driving as a privilege which entails certain obligations to society—and greater obligations than mere compliance with traffic laws.

There ought to be a carefully formulated rationale of driving—a philosophy which delineates and explains the driver's social responsibility. This should go well beyond the do-this-and-don't-do-that of regulation. It should deal with such threats to safety as aggressive, thoughtless, me-first driving—even merely careless driving that may break no rules yet is a hazard. Once such a philosophy, or code, had been worked out, the next step would be to develop widespread acceptance of it as a seasonable and indeed necessary demand on the driver.

Something like this is already being done, in a limited way, through safety campaigns and school driver education programs. The experience already gained could be the launching pad for an effort to teach as many as possible the responsibilities that go with the driving privilege.

This would be a costly operation. But the highway toll is expensive, too. And in lives as well as money. This toll might be sharply cut if the average driver could be imbued with a sense of social obligation to match his skill at the wheel.

ALCOHOL—BIG WATER SAVER

Arizonans, along with nearly everyone else in the Southwest, have a water problem. In some sections of the state, wells must be dug 25 feet deeper every year to reach the water table.

The situation is serious enough to be driving some people to alcohol for at least a partial solution to their troubles.

Temperance folk need not be alarmed, however. The alcohol is being used to cut down the evaporation of stored water.

Researchers at the University of Arizona are working on a wind-powered device that meters emulsified alcohol onto the surface of tanks and reservoirs where it forms a thin film that retards evaporation. As the film dissipates, the gadget automatically supplies more evaporation suppressant.

Two years of tests with a 53 by 78-foot pond in Tucson showed that evaporation was cut up to 35 per cent. It is estimated that the system would cost a farmer only 80 cents for every thousand gallons of water saved.

The scientists point out that if all the precipitation that falls on the state could be caught, stored and saved, Arizona would get a 20-year supply of water in one year. But even the capture of only a small percentage of this moisture could transform desert areas into gardens.

FLOODS AND DROUTHS

Floods on the Mississippi and falling water tables in the arid West are a twofold reminder that, despite the great advances we have made in curbing Nature's capacity for disaster, much remains to be done. Our efforts to deal with these dissimilar but related problems should be stepped up.

Government engineers have shown they can handle the lower reaches of the Mississippi and harness the Tennessee, the Missouri and the Columbia, but the great "Father of Waters" has just shown that its upper reaches are far from being as safe as they could be made. Furthermore, those who battle the Western deserts and struggle with periodic drouths in the Midwest feel an appalling sense of frustration as they watch millions of tons of fresh water pour their way down the great central valley to become uselessly saline in the Gulf of Mexico.

Here is a challenge that defies us today

'These Days'

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

WHY KEEP THINGS SECRET FROM MAO?

I don't know what the United States Information Service, the State Department and other Washington agencies are managing to convey to Moscow and Peking about the temper of this country. But someone ought to be getting it through to our Cold War enemies that the joint is jumping in the U. S. with ideas for carrying forward our fight for the integrity of South Vietnam. These ideas don't get the headlines that the beatnik "peace" marchers and the young isolationist graduate students (love that ivory tower!) have learned how to command by stopping the traffic in front of the White House. But they are percolating nonetheless, and if we had any finesse in psychological warfare we would be telling Russia and Red China about them in coldly insinuating terms.

To pick one example, Isaac Don Levine, an old Cold War Hand from away back, has been making speeches to Air Force groups about the nature of guerilla warfare. The job in fighting guerillas in South Vietnam, he says, is to drive a wedge between the guerilla bands and the communities: "Separate the guerillas from the population!" One of his suggestions is to offer a bounty in the form of schools and hospitals to half a dozen picked South Vietnam localities for the surrender and delivery or liquidation of local Red terrorists in the neighborhood. On satisfactory proof of the destruction of the local Viet Cong a community would get a new hospital and a new school, to be administered by the village's council of elders. Mr. Levine suggests that Washington devote a $250,000,000 crash budget (equal to the cost of 125 days of fighting) to finance such a program.

Another good "psywar" play would be to collect and disseminate the proposals that are cropping up hither and yon for a "second front" in the struggle to break the Communist drive to take over South Vietnam. A number of people have suggested that the United States might look with favor on some intensified raids on the China coast by Chiang Kai-shek's Taiwan Chinese. The strategic island of Hainan, which is separated from South China by a ten-mile-wide strait, could be seized and defended by the Taiwan Chinese if the U. S. would only lend-lease some instruments of amphibious warfare to Chiang Kai-shek. Moreover, with increased amphibious capacity, the Taiwan Chinese might play havoc with China's coastal railroads.

A task force study put out by the American Conservative Union in Washington contains a number of good suggestions from members of the academic community who should be exempted from Secretary of State Dean Rusk's charge of professional gullibility. River warfare, so it is pointed out by these professors, has been neglected by the South Vietnamese—and "a crash program to develop fleets of suitable armed small craft should be given highest priority." Anti-crip chemicals might be sprayed on the opium crops that are raised in North Vietnam for surreptitious export to the West. This would not only deprive the Communists of foreign exchange; it would also simultaneously strike at something that is a demoralizing influence on western youth.

Finally, Washington should give full publicity abroad to the arguments of those who insist that it might be a good thing if Red China were openly to enter the war in Vietnam. In the event of such intervention there would be no need to commit American soldiers to fighting on the continent of Asia. It would be enough to bomb Red China's fledgling atomic sites and its industrial complexes out of existence, meanwhile offering Chiang Kai-shek enough landing craft and air cover to enable Chinese to fight Chinese. It should be drilled home to Mao Tse-tung that Japan was beaten in 1945 before a single U. S. soldier had set foot on the Japanese islands. Our occupation of Japan was actually an unnecessary fiasco.

It's too bad that the late C. D. Jackson, a founder of Radio Free Europe who once headed a psychological warfare task group for President Eisenhower, isn't still with us. He would have been just the man to let Mao Tse-tung know that the U. S. tiger has not been bereft of its claws. (Copyright, 1965, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

The DOCTOR SAYS

Polarizing Glasses Best In Reducing Light Glare

BY WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

A reader writes that he wants to get tinted glasses to ease the strain on his eyes, which he finds especially annoying when he drives long distances. He wears glasses regularly but would like to get his prescription ground into a pair of tinted glasses for driving.

Recommendations from various sources as to what tint is best are often contradictory and those put out as advertisements may be misleading. The American Academy of Ophthalmology has studied this matter and has concluded that tinted glasses, although they reduce the amount of light that reaches the eye, do little to reduce the glare or reflected light that is the chief source of irritation and a definite hazard in driving.

In driving it is essential to maintain the best possible vision at all times. For daylight driving, polarizing glasses are best for cutting down glare. These can now be ground to your prescription even in bifocals. Polarizing clip-on glasses are also available at a much lower cost but are less satisfactory because of the added weight.

Yellow tinted glasses are of special aid to hunters because they make fawn-colored animals appear more distinct by cutting out blue and green wave lengths. They have no other advantage. For all other purposes, including driving, smoky grey is preferred as a second choice after polarizing glasses.

Tinted lenses should not be used indoors and should never be used for reading. Unless your eyes are diseased or are abnormally sensitive, such glasses should be worn only when the light is excessively bright. Healthy eyes, in which any refractive error has been properly corrected should be able to tolerate bright sunlight unless it is reflected by snow, water or sand. Do not, however, look directly at the sun, even for a few seconds.

Night driving presents a different problem. Any lens, polarizing, reflecting or tinted, will reduce the light that reaches your eyes and to that extent make it more difficult to see details. It is especially dangerous to wear such lenses at dusk or on a heavily overcast day. You should prevent glare inside your car by dimming your panel lights.

Never drive so fast you can't stop within the clearly lighted distance ahead of you. If you are blinded by the glare of oncoming cars, reduce your speed and keep your eyes focused on the right-hand side of the road.

because the projects necessary to meet it are so costly as to be considered economically unfeasible. But when the population expansion approaches its zenith this answer will not suffice. The day will come when neither drouth nor flood will be tolerated for the simple reason that they no longer can be afforded.

It is not too early now to start preparing for that day. Conditions are changing faster than is popularly supposed.

Some people object to the U. S. sending marines into the Dominican Republic—but Americans caught there kind of like the feeling of protection it gives them.

Let's See, Now, Where Were We?

Washington News

BY RAY CROMLEY

Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — There has been some criticism recently of U. S. bombings in North Viet Nam. One prominent senator has suggested a respite. Some critics say bombing is ineffective.

These men haven't read history. The U.S. bombing of Japan, coupled with land and sea victories, was so effective Japan sought peace before Hiroshima. (Tokyo asked Moscow to tell Washington; the Reds didn't pass on the word). The Japanese surrender didn't come as a result of our easing off.

THE PRESENT BOMBING OF North Viet Nam is not the kind calculated to bring Ho Chi Minh to his knees. We are avoiding Ho's industry, rice dams, ports and cities.

Today's bombing has limited objectives. We're attempting to show Ho we mean business and to remind him things can get worse. A halt won't convince him. We're also trying to slow the infiltration of Red troops and arms to keep the war manageable.

One month of bombing bridges, convoys and staging areas won't stop this flow. One month won't necessarily slow it appreciably (after the initial shock).

Six months of daily selective bombing could change the story. But to make this northern bombing effective, we must combine it with more pressure on Viet Cong units in the South. The initiative will have to be stolen from the Reds.

This is the lesson learned from World War II and Korea.

AIR STRIKES DON'T KNOCK OUT SUPPLIES or transport for long. Railroads, and even factories, rapidly come back into operation and production soon hits almost normal.

But there are delays because of the shortages of one thing or another. Knocking out rolling stock, trucks, or supplies of equipment and petroleum for short periods in World War II kept German backup forces from arriving on time in critical battles.

The foot soldier chewed up German troops, weapons and tanks. The Air Force slowed down for crucial hours or days the arrival of German backup and replacements.

The major mistake the United States made in the Korean fighting was to give the Reds time to build up again after each infantry attack ground to a halt for lack of supplies. Air Force bombings slowed the rate at which the Reds resupplied. This made them wait longer between attacks but didn't weaken the attacks.

If more pressure could have been put on the Reds as soon as each major attack ran out of steam, then the air strikes on Red supply routes would have been much more effective.

In the same way, without increased pressure in South Viet Nam to grind up Viet Cong troops and material, the air strikes will merely lengthen the time between VC attacks, not weaken them. Instead of attacking at four to six-week intervals, say, they'll hit at six to eight-week periods.

There are signs this increased pressure on the VC is in the works.

DO YOU REMEMBER

By SOPHIE MILLER

Among the collection of items recently loaned to me are a number of small booklets, some 50 pages, covering the funeral services of such men as Rev. Jacob Brodhead, D.D., of the North Dutch Church in the City of New York, who died on Friday, June 8, 1855. There is a fine portrait engraving of him in the front of the book. The reason this brochure is in this collection is because the late Rev. Brodhead was born in Marbletown, Ulster County, May 14, 1782. His father, Charles W. Brodhead, a devoted patriot in the cause of American Independence, and an officer in the Revolutionary War. He raised a company of grenadiers, mainly at his own expense, and was with them in command in the American Army at the surrender of General Burgoyne at Saratoga. Dr. Brodhead's mother was Sarah Hardenbergh, of New Paltz, in the county of Ulster. The ancestor of the family was Captain Daniel Brodhead, who came from Yorkshire, in England, with Colonel Nicolls, at the time of the surrender of the colony of New-Netherland to the British crown in 1664.

In those days no matter what historical paper one seems to run across one finds the names of citizens of Ulster county. Charles W. Brodhead had official duties at Esopus, or Kingston, in Ulster county, where he remained until his death in 1869. The county of Ulster, they write, "was settled by Hollanders and Huguenots; a people distinguished by the most valuable traits of character." At the age of 12, in 1794, Dr. Brodhead was placed by his father, under the care of Rev. Abraham Van Horne, of Rochester, Ulster county, to study languages.

There the young Brodhead pursued classical studies for two years with Dominie Van Horne, and then went with Rev. Dr. Theodorick Romeyn in Schenectady, who was his uncle. Rev. Romeyn was given credit, as to whose exertions more than those of any other person the foundation of Union College. The Brodhead boy then entered grammar school under the direction of Mr. Halsey, in 1796. In 1797 he was sent to Kingston Academy, "which had for many years been the leading academy in the State" and was then superintended by Timothy Treadwell Smith, afterwards professor in Union College. Jacob Brodhead, Doctor of Divinity, was born May 14, 1782 and died June 6, 1855, aged 73 years and 23 days, it read. He was one of the important clergy of his day known in the large cities, like New York and Philadelphia.

There are no end of poems and songs in the fight for Freedom, from oppression and taxation in these brochures and books going back to 1776. In the 1846 book on the Indians in Wawasa during the American Revolution there is a long poem addressed to King George of Britain called "Taxation of America."

I was asked recently about finger printing in the police department. I have an item of April 4, 1916, when the Board of Police Commissioners of Kingston decided to buy a Bertillon finger printing system at a cost of slightly more than $400. This equipment was purchased and operated by Chief of Police J. Allan Wood, who it was said, became an expert at it. I received a note from George H. Schick, who sent me the Sun-Sentinel paper in which our Ulster County Gazette was written up. He sent it from Del Ray Beach, Florida. His Kingston address is 18 Reynolds Street. This is the third one I received from Kingston residents who are enjoying Florida sunshine.

Today in National Affairs

Effect of Intervention By U. S. in Steel Talks

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — While the socialist Labor party in Great Britain is trying to "nationalize" the steel industry, right here in Washington the Federal government has undertaken to tell both labor and management in the steel business how it thinks prices and wages should be fixed in the next three years.

Congress has passed no law authorizing the executive to set wages or prices, as happens in wartime, but so powerful is the effect of wage and price stability or instability on the national economy that the President, through his Council of Economic Advisers, has decided to "advise" both labor and management in the steel industry what they are to do.

The advice is centered upon what are called "guideposts," and the theory is that in an industry increases its productivity through new plants or increased efficiency of its workers, then it is in a position to absorb wage increases without increasing prices. The big question is how much the rate of productivity has gone up and how much of a wage increase is consequently permissible.

The President's Council of Economic Advisers has just issued its report, pursuant to a request made by the White House last January. The Council, in its official findings, declares that the rate of productivity has advanced in the steel industry about 3 per cent after adjustments for various steel-making operations. It is stated that this is approximately equal to conditions prevalent in the national economy.

When a 3 per cent increase in productivity is conceded, it means that a 3 per cent wage increase in steel is classified as "non-inflationary" and as well within the realm of reasonableness.

The national steel union, on the other hand, may feel that it needs more than a 3 per cent increase per year, and the negotiations which are about to start will find both sides arguing as to whether the productivity rate is as high as the government says it is or higher. Thus, the steel companies are already declaring that their analysis shows productivity has gone up only 2 per cent, indicating that any pay raise larger than that figure would necessitate higher steel prices in order to maintain present profits.

The President's Council argues against any increase in steel prices and points out that this could lead to increased steel imports, push up other industrial costs, and perhaps reduce the steel industry's share

Bidding Goes in Numerous Ways

By JACOBY & SON
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

The American Contract Bridge League conducts a nationwide charity game in connection with each of its three national championships. Hands are duplicated all over the country and everyone competes directly with the players in his own group and indirectly with others from the rest of the country.

Here is a hand which probably was bid in many ways. The bidding shown in the box finds South going down three tricks at four spades for minus 500 and a good match point score since at most tables West would be allowed to play four hearts.

The play at four spades starts with a diamond lead by West. East takes his ace and leads the queen whereupon West ruffs South's king of diamonds with the queen of trumps. West leads the ace and queen of clubs. East overtakes the queen and cashes his jack of diamonds. Then he leads a fourth diamond and West makes his king of spades.

Four spades doubled down 500 would turn out to be below average in most games. Some players would stay out of the bidding entirely and double four hearts when their opponents got there. Others would bid two spades over two diamonds and double four hearts when East bid it.

A great many North players would not raise their partner with four trumps to the jack and no other face cards. In these circumstances West would wind up playing four hearts or four hearts doubled.

There also is a good chance that some West players will pass over South's two spade call. Then if North raises to three spades it is possible that East will bid four clubs and West will raise to five clubs. Five clubs won't come close and if East and West correct to five hearts they will be down one.

Shortcake Might Be Minus the Berries

By JERRY RANKIN
SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — California is looking into classrooms, kitchens and Army barracks in a desperate search for workers to harvest a multimillion-dollar strawberry crop reportedly rotting under a warm spring sun.

The recruiting drive intensified today as growers' spokesmen predicted that "this is just the beginning" of a crisis in California's lush fields, brought on by sustained fine weather.

Acute Labor Shortage

O. W. Fillerup, executive vice president of the Council of California Growers, pointed to an acute labor shortage in the strawberry-rich Salinas Valley 100 miles south of San Francisco.

"Crops are rotting, and they are rotting because of a genuine labor shortage in spite of all the efforts by responsible growers to recruit and maintain a domestic labor force," he contended.

Fillerup laid the blame for the crisis at the door of Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz. He said the government was told months ago that foreign workers would have to be put into the fields because there weren't enough domestics.

State labor union officials, however, replied to Fillerup that if growers paid more than the $1.40 hourly minimum set by Wirtz, the crops could be adequately handled.

"The growers seem to think they are somehow entitled to government-supplied foreign labor if U. S. workers don't suddenly rush out to compete for jobs offering a guarantee of only $56 a week gross on an eight-hour day, five-day-a-week basis," commented Thomas L. Pitts, secretary-treasurer of the state AFL-CIO.

'Too Late, Too Little'

Wirtz has authorized importing 1,000 to 1,500 Mexicans to the valley, but state employment director Albert Tieburg said they won't show up before the last week in May. Assemblyman Alan Pattee, a Republican rancher from Salinas, said Monday Wirtz was "too late with too little."

After a tour of the area last Friday, Tieburg ordered farm recruiters to try to get students excused from school, housewives out of the home and three-day passes for soldiers from nearby Ft. Ord who volunteer to pick the berries.

The strawberries — and asparagus, which Fillerup predicted would be hit next by a crisis — were harvested in past years by Mexican braceros. Up to 65,000 of them roamed California fields in peak harvest times before Congress ended the program last Dec. 31.

World News In Brief

Says Bonn Has Right

BONN, Germany (AP)—Foreign Minister Gerhard Schröder says West Germany has right to take part "in an effective way" in the North Atlantic Alliance's nuclear deterrent.

"If the alliance is to keep together," he said in an interview Monday, its members "must solve its nuclear problems, which arise through the existence of nuclear and non-nuclear powers."

The North Atlantic Treaty Organization has been studying plans to incorporate West Germany into an Atlantic nuclear defense—but not to let the West Germans have their own weapons.

Faces New Threat

LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Harold Wilson's slender parliamentary majority faces a new threat on the steel nationalization issue—this one from the left wing of his Labor party.

Old-guard Socialist Ian Mikardo announced he may not support the government's nationalization plan because he believes compensation for steel shareholders proposed by Wilson's Cabinet is "madly overgenerous."

Wilson plans to have Parliament vote Thursday on a white paper outlining plans to bring most of Britain's steel industry under government ownership.

Reds Eye 'Hard Sell'

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet government announced today the formation of a new government agency to turn out "hard sell" advertising.

The Community party newspaper Pravda explained: "Our advertising, as a rule, is lacking in expressiveness and intelligibility. It lacks invention, attractiveness. In a word, its effect on people is usually limited."

"And here it would be no sin to learn from foreign firms," Pravda urged poets, writers and painters to become copywriters and ad artists.

Vows or Shelter, Decision Before Mother, 5 Nuns

VICTORIA, B.C. (AP)—Mother Cecilia Mary and five nuns of her order will have to choose between their vows and their Good Shepherd Animal Shelter here, her superiors in the Roman Catholic Church say.

"We certainly don't intend to give up our vows and we certainly don't intend to give up the animal shelter," Mother Cecilia, 73, head of the Order of the Sisters of the Love of Jesus, said Monday night.

Last week, church authorities gave her six days to close the Good Shepherd shelter which now houses about 120 dogs, cats, birds and a goat.

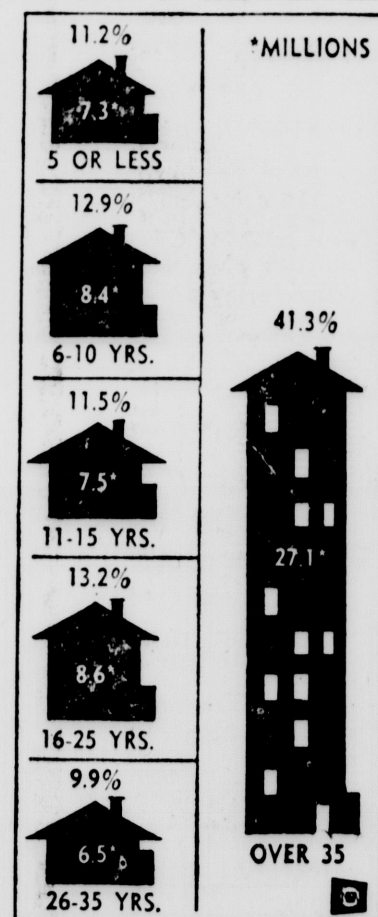

The church's deadline is today.

Church spokesmen did not detail what the consequences would be.

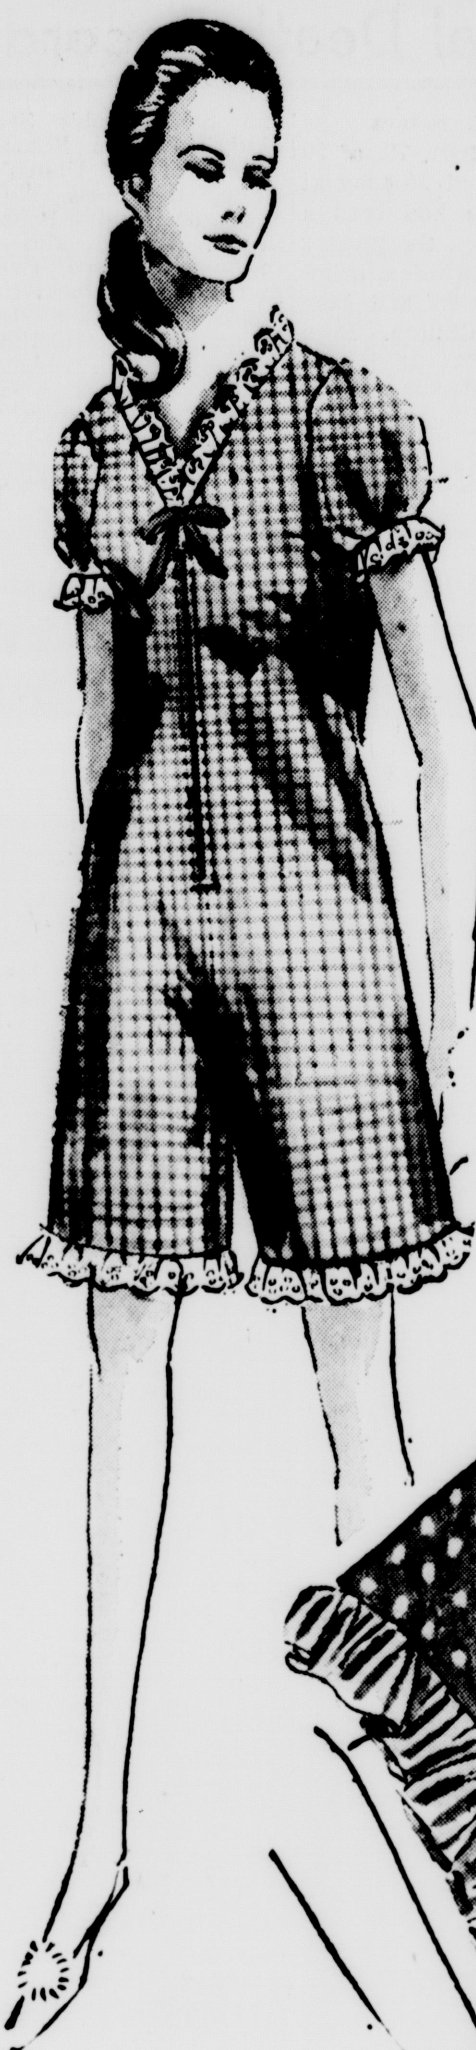

The ultimatum came after an investigation by a member of the Benedictine Order, tow high Mother Cecilia's order is attached.

The Church said there had been complaints about noise; that the nuns are not following their vocations by caring for animals rather than people; and that they cannot lead an acceptable religious life in an animal shelter.

Mother Cecilia is also mother superior of St. Mary's Priory, a home for the aged about a mile from the shelter. The Church ordered her to quit the shelter and return to the priory.

Shops Still Picketed

NEW YORK (AP)—Hundreds of pickets were posted again today outside the shops of women's garment industry middlemen, as clerks and office workers continued a strike.

The strike by the AFL-CIO Retail, Wholesale and Department Store Workers Union began Sunday against "convert" shops—agents who buy cloth from mills, have it dyed to specifications and sell it to dress manufacturers.

The union says there are 10,000 workers in 1,200 such firms in New York City and New Jersey.

Six Area Firms Cited at Safety Dinner Monday

Eighteen firms, including six from Ulster County, received 21 awards at the annual safety campaign award banquet of the Mid-Hudson Industrial Association Monday night.

The Kingston plant of International Business Machines Corp. received a certificate of achievement.

The 100 per cent awards are given to participants completing the entire campaign accident-free and certificates of achievement go to participants with less than perfect records but with an accident frequency rate lower than the average accident rate for that group and section.

The grand award went to Allstate Design and Development Co., Inc., Poughkeepsie, for working the greatest number of manhours in their particular group and section without a lost-time accident.

The D-Laval Separator Co., Poughkeepsie, light machine works department, received an 11-year award; Lansing - Brothers Printing Co., Inc., Poughkeepsie, 10-year award; N. Y. The awards were made by Howard W. Smith, president of Pawling Rubber Corporation and a former president of The Mid-Hudson Industrial Association and a member of its forum committee.

Smith was assisted by David J. Thomas, director of insurance of Associated Industries of New York State, Inc.

Thomas H. Witney, vice president and manager of the Eastern Division of Western Printing & Lithographing Co., vice president of the Mid-Hudson Industrial Association and chairman of its forum committee, presided. Why We Say-- "BETTER LATE THAN NEVER"

FROM BIBLE: Many employers have repeated this phrase to a tardy employee but probably without thinking of where it started. The phrase has arisen in allusion to the laborers in the Bible parable who were called to work in the vineyard at the 11th hour and yet received a full day's pay.

Three Figured In Recovering Bodies at Lake

Three men who live in Mirror Lake Lodge area should have been mentioned in yesterday's story of a father-son drowning at the lake Sunday night.

They are Wilford Fisher, Arthur Maurer and Francis Passante.

Victims of the tragic incident were Lambert LaFlore, 26, of 331 Mansion Street, Poughkeepsie and his son Kevin, 5.

They drowned when a round-bottom boat capsized as the father endeavored to cast a fishing line, it was reported.

A companion Harold Dedrick, 21, also of Poughkeepsie swam to shore calling for help.

It was reported today that Fisher heard the call first and started out in a boat to try to help the two in distress.

He was followed by Maurer and Passante, the report said, who also heard the cry for help. The men dove to the bottom of the lake and recovered the bodies.

Gilbert Gray of Doctors Ambulance who had answered a call to the lake, and State Trooper W. E. Wiedemann gave mouth-to-mouth resuscitation, for almost an hour.

Dr. Henry C. Eichelmann of Port Ewen pronounced the father and son dead.

Cooker Henry S. Hartley of Saugerties pronounced death accidental due to drowning.

Asks $700 Million

In the use of power, and constancy in the search for peace.

Still More Evacuations

In the Dominican Republic, Johnson said expenditures are not great. But he said we have several thousand men there and there are 5,000 persons still to be evacuated.

Usually budget-conscious Republicans suggested Monday that the administration might want to ask Congress for more military funds this year.

Rep. L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, declared, "Whatever he needs, he's going to get as far as I'm concerned." He said he felt sure Congress would give the President any additional money he might need.

House Votes Wednesday

Rivers' committee last week authorized $15.3 billion for the purchase of military aircraft, ships and missiles and for research and development. The House is scheduled to vote on the authorization Wednesday.

There was no official word that Johnson and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara feel they need more money. However, there is a report that some Congress members believe that congressional approval of a boost in defense spending would carry more weight in illustrating support for administration policies than would the traditional resolution expressing bipartisan support of presidential actions.

The House GOP Policy Committee Monday gave its support to the $15.3-billion authorization measure but in so many words invited Johnson to restudy his military shopping list to see whether it should be increased in view of the U.S. action in the Dominican Republic, added to the increased American activity in Southeast Asia.

House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan went even further than his policy committee. He said in a statement that the President should immediately ask for more defense money.

Morse Asks Accounting

Although Johnson generally was getting bipartisan congressional support in the Dominican crisis, Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., called in the Senate Monday for an administration accounting on how far the United States is justified in going in efforts to prevent a possible Communist take-over in the Caribbean republic.

"We in effect stopped the revolution," he said. He added that this played into the hands of Communist propagandists, contending that the United States was supporting a three-man military junta against duly elected but deposed President Juan Bosch.

There was clear recognition among some members of Congress that Johnson hadn't sent troops to Santo Domingo merely to insure the evacuation of Americans and other nationals.

Rep. Carl Albert of Oklahoma, the House Democratic leader, told his colleagues that while

Other members of the alliance — Thailand, the Philippines and Britain — supported U. S. policy in Viet Nam but made no immediate commitment to send troops.

In a television debate via the Early Bird satellite, spokesmen for the United States, Britain and France agreed that communism must be stopped in Southeast Asia.

France's spokesman, Maurice Schumann, president of the Foreign Affairs Committee of the French Chamber of Deputies, said President Johnson's April 7 speech in Baltimore calling for negotiations on Viet Nam would have been more effective had it been followed by a pause in the bombing of North Viet Nam.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk repeated U. S. willingness to enter negotiations without advance conditions. He implied that if the Communists indicated that stopping the bombing of North Viet Nam would lead to a peaceful solution, "we would be interested in what they have to say on the subject."

Communist China claimed that the Viet Cong now controls four-fifths of South Viet Nam with a population of 10 million.

The United States didn't want to interfere with the destiny of the Dominican people "we want to be sure that international communism does not seize on and stifle" their aspirations.

Lazarus Quits As Consultant

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Reuben A. Lazarus, a $20,000-a-year, long-time legislative aide at the Capitol, has resigned with the comment that "to continue would be utter futility."

Lazarus, most recently a consultant to Assembly Speaker Anthony J. Travia, told a reporter:

"I could not take the money merely to sit around when my technical advice was not being sought."

Said Democrat Travia: "He is a very valuable and useful guy. I'm sorry he felt he had to do this."

Before the Democrats took control of the Legislature this year, Lazarus had been a consultant to two Republican speakers, Joseph F. Carlino and Oswald D. Heck. New York City problems and constitutional questions were Lazarus' specialties.

He lives in New York and was an assistant mayor in the LaGuardia administration there.

Memphis Shocked Goes Nude Again To Have Magazine Photos to Date

By JAMES BACON
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Stella Stevens was broke a few years ago and posed in the nude for a girlie magazine.

She's no longer broke. In fact, she has arrived as a movie actress.

But there in the same magazine, again, is a bare Stella.

How come?

"I got $3,000 for posing the first time. This last time, I did it for nothing. Why?"

"I'll tell you why. They kept using the old pictures over and over again. So I figured that I'd control the art myself. I hired a photographer and posed in the nude for a hundred or so shots."

"I selected the ones I liked best and sent them to the magazine. They are pictures I like and ones that I feel are in good taste."

"At least if I'm going to show up nude in the magazine every few months, it will be with pictures that I like."

She fears she has scandalized her home town of Memphis.

"A reporter for one of the newspapers there called me and said the whole town is talking about me."

"I guess the preachers are preaching about me again."

She still thinks she did the right thing.

"I didn't do it for publicity. Who knows whether something like this can't do more harm than good? All I know is that the photographs of me in the nude would have kept recurring. This way, at least, they'll be better."

Career-wise, Stella is riding high. Just released is "Synanon," and soon to be released is "The Secret of My Success," in both of which she is starred.

The curvy blonde just bought a new house in the exclusive Coldwater Canyon district of Beverly Hills.

She has a live-in maid and her 8-year-old son goes to a military school.

The Memphis bombshell has come a long way.

And, she adds:

"I once said I would never pose in the nude again but then

Senior Citizen Projects Listed By Health Office

ALBANY—The State Health Department has more than 35 research and demonstration projects to directly benefit the aging. Dr. Hollis S. Ingraham, State Health Commissioner, announced today in conjunction with the designation of May by Governor Rockefeller as Senior Citizens' Month.

"Research is vital if we are to meet the demands for comprehensive medical services made by the state's increasing numbers of persons over 65," Dr. Ingraham said. "But it is only a part of the over-all picture which includes continuing programs for services to the aged by local health departments in the state."

"We are placing emphasis on home care programs," Dr. Ingraham stated, "since they provide at least a partial solution to the economic problems of long-term care for the chronically ill. Nursing care or homemaker service allows a patient the benefits of family life while freeing hospital beds for those who need intensive care.

"Rehabilitation services can also be provided on a home-visit basis," Dr. Ingraham continued, "while treatment requiring extensive equipment is frequently best arranged through outpatient clinics."

"Caring for the well-aging is another area where the benefits conferred justify the expenditure. Multiple screening programs to enable the early detection of chronic diseases, such as cancer, heart disease, TB and other respiratory diseases, diabetes and glaucoma, are of prime importance."

"Health information and referral services, which have been successfully introduced into several areas of the state in recent years, are a further key to helping the aging. These services have much to offer all age groups, especially aged persons, who often do not know what agencies are available to offer them assistance."

Dr. Ingraham summarized by saying: "In these years we are fortunate in seeing a great cooperative effort in pursuit of

Correction Men At Green Haven, Beacon to Picket

Seeking higher pay scales, correction officers planned to demonstrate each day this week at the Green Haven State Prison, Stormville, and the Matteawan State Hospital for Criminally Insane, Beacon.

Leslie Sheeley, head of the union at Green Haven prison, said it was likely the correction officers would again succeed in closing down the $2 million cell block construction at Green Haven prison. Work was stopped last week for two days.

Sheeley, who said the men have the support of Raymond Corbett, head of the State Labor Trades AFL-CIO. The immediate goal, he noted, is for a meeting of correction officers with Governor Rockefeller, who has so far declined to meet with the union officials despite several weeks of demonstrations.

Each year we come nearer to this goal."

Protest Strike Underway at GE

SCHENECTADY, N.Y. (AP) — Three thousand employees of General Electric's large steam turbine-generator department today began a two-day "protest" strike.

The employees are members of Local 301, International Union of Electrical Workers (IUE). A union spokesman said the strike was planned to protest what he called punitive action taken by the company after a job dispute April 9. Then, 500 workers walked off their jobs.

According to the union, management since has penalized each of the workers in pay for one day or two days.

The company called last month's walkoff an "illegal work stoppage" and told the men that they would be penalized.

R. W. Brearton Jr., GE employee relations manager, said today's strike "comes at a time when major customer commitments are before us. . . It will hinder our efforts."

Leo Jandreau, Local 301 business agent, said "management could have stopped this protest strike."

The April 9th dispute concerned the number of workers to be used on jobs classified as "dangerous." The men returned to work after two days.

The session, which will begin at 1 p.m., will be conducted by Frank Ferro, field representative of the New York Regional Office of the Office of Economic Opportunity.

pect of the nonmilitary use of atomic energy.

For Viet Nam Photos*AP Lensman Given Pulitzer Award

NEW YORK (AP) — For the second year in a row, The Associated Press, the Wall Street Journal and the Philadelphia Bulletin have been awarded Pulitzer prizes.

Other Pulitzer Prizes announced Monday went to a newspaper crusading for legislative reapportionment, a part-time housewife, a novice Broadway playwright and the publisher of a small-town weekly newspaper.

20th AP Prize

Horst Faas, an Associated Press combat photographer who says the only way to get to the heart of the story is to be close to the action, won a Pulitzer Prize for news photography for his dramatic and sensitive pictures of the war in Viet Nam.

Faas' award marked the 20th Pulitzer Prize received by The Associated Press in the news or photography categories.

Louis M. Kohlmeier, 39, of the Wall Street Journal's Washington bureau, was cited in the category of national reporting for his enterprise and thorough research on the growth of the fortune of President Johnson and his family. The story took three months of research in Washington, New York and Texas and ran 6,600 words.

J. A. Livingston, 60, veteran financial editor of the Philadelphia Bulletin, won the award in international reporting for his series of articles describing the economic defection of the Soviet Union's eastern European satellites. Entitled "The Powerful Pull of the Dollar," the series was described by Walter W. Heller, former chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisors, as "politico-economic journalism at its best."

The Pulitzer Prize gold medal for meritorious public service was given to the Hutchinson (Kan.) News, a daily with a circulation of 52,500, for its successful four-year crusade to force equitable legislative reapportionment in Kansas despite powerful local opposition. The newspaper won a suit in the state courts forcing the Kansas Senate to be apportioned on a population basis.

Housewife Honored

Shirley Ann Grau, 35, a housewife who began her literary career 10 years ago with a collection of short stories called "The Black Prince," received the fiction award for her third novel, "The Keepers of the House," a story of racial tension in a small Southern town.

For the second straight year, music was bypassed. The first prize for drama awarded in three years went to Frank D. Gilroy for "The Subject Was Roses," his first Broadway play which had been turned down by 15 producers.

Melvin H. Ruder, 50, publisher, editor, reporter and photographer for the weekly Hungry Horse News at Columbia Falls, Mont., (pop. 2,132) won the general local reporting award for his outstanding coverage of a disastrous flood last June.

Gene Goltz, 35, investigative reporter for the Houston (Tex.) Post, was given the special local reporting award for an expose of government corruption in Pasadena, Tex., a city of 73,000 persons southeast of Houston.

The editorial writing award went to John R. Harrison, 31, publisher of the Gainesville (Fla.) Sun, circulation 16,304, for a series of forceful editorials that helped bring about municipal approval of a minimum housing code. Leaders in the Florida city of 30,000 had been fighting to improve housing conditions in the community for 10 years.

Nothing for Cartoons

There was no 1965 award for cartoons.

The Pulitzer prizes were named for the late Joseph Pulitzer, who founded the St. Louis Post Dispatch and later bought the New York World. They have been awarded annually since 1917 by trustees of the Columbia University Graduate School of Journalism. They were announced by Columbia's president, Grayson Kirk.

The journalism prizes carry awards of $1,000 each, except for the newspaper receiving the public service award, which gets a gold medal. Awards of $500 each go to winners in the letters categories.

Faas, 32, a Berlin native who has been covering cold and hot wars since he joined The AP in 1956, cabled from Frankfurt, Germany, while en route back to Saigon from New York.

"The award is one that could be shared by all Associated Press men who go out and risk their lives to cover the news where it happens."

"Those of us in Viet Nam regard our task not only to cover the day-to-day developments, but to give the public all over the world a word and picture feel of the tragic situation there."

Browne Cited Last Year

Malcolm Browne, chief of The Associated Press bureau in Saigon, shared a Pulitzer Prize a year ago with David Halberstam of the New York Times, for coverage of the Viet Nam war.

Browne is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Browne of New York City and Shugerties. They make their summer home on Livingston Street, Saugerties.

Both Browne and Halberstam are authors of new books relating episodes of the war in Viet Nam. Browne has written "The New Face of War," published by Bobbs-Merrill and Halberstam "The Making of A Quagmire," released by Random House.

Last year, the Wall Street Journal won the local general reporting award while the Philadelphia Bulletin won the local special reporting award.

Terror Campaign Possible

Underground Methods May Be Used by Reds In Dominican Republic

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

AP Special Correspondent

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. officials see a serious possibility that as peace is restored in the Dominican Republic hard-core Communist leaders may go underground or take to the countryside with plans to wage a campaign of terror and subversion.

The U.S. government is represented by authorities here as being determined to make sure that so far as possible all measures will be taken to eliminate any danger of a Communist seizure of power before American troops leave the war-torn Caribbean island.

President Johnson declared in a speech here Monday night that "we don't propose to sit here on our rocking chair with our hands folded and let the Communists set up a government anywhere in this hemisphere."

Johnson also reaffirmed in his talk to a legislative conference of the AFL-CIO Building Trades Department his determination to see that peace is established and that the Dominican people are given real hope of stability in government before U.S. forces leave the Dominican Republic. When those requirements are met, he said, "we'll be the first to come back home."

The President also emphasized his hope that the Organization of American States, with a committee now active in efforts to restore peace and order, will take a leading role in resolving the Dominican crisis.

At the Pan American Union, where the OAS is meeting now almost daily, U.S. hopes for quick action on the proposal to create an inter-American military force received a setback. The council met Monday night but failed to take final action on the proposal under which other American nations would share in the Dominican operation with the United States.

It agreed to meet again today at 3 p.m.

On Capitol Hill, Johnson was getting broad bipartisan support for his actions in the Dominican crisis. Congress appeared likely to provide any extra military funds he might ask to cover the cost of sending troops and supplies into the Dominican Republic.

In his talk to the labor group, the President said that by Monday night there would be 14,000 U.S. troops in the Dominican Republic. Officials here estimated that on the rebel side there may be as many as 6,500 soldiers and armed civilians.

One objective of U.S. strategy in putting so many Marines and soldiers into the Dominican Republic has been to make a demonstration of force so impressive that the rebels would recognize heavy odds against themselves and would begin to lay down their arms.

By late Monday the government here was receiving a number of reports that some of the rebel fighters were beginning to hide their weapons and give up the struggle, at least for the time being. Officials familiar with these reports said they were wholly unconfirmed. Nevertheless they created considerable interest among Johnson administration policymakers.

NEW YORK (AP) — The U.S. Court of Appeals has reinstated

a complaint challenging the constitutionality of the loyalty oath required of faculty members of the State University of New York.

The court in a unanimous decision Monday reversed Federal District Judge John Henderson in Buffalo who had dismissed the challenge, filed by five faculty members of the State University at Buffalo.

The Court of Appeals directed Henderson to convene a three-judge U.S. District Court to hear the case. The ruling said the case should not have been dismissed as lacking in substance.

Plaintiffs are Harry Keyishian, George Hochfield, Newton Garver, Ralph N. Maud and George E. Starbuck.

The five had refused to sign a loyalty certificate prepared by the Board of Regents, the top education authority in the

FPC Hearing Set

On Overhead Lines

WASHINGTON (AP) — The controversy over overhead transmission lines to carry power from a projected hydroelectric plant in the Hudson River highlands gets another airing today at a Federal Power Commission hearing.

Over opposition of conservationists, the commission issued a license to the Consolidated Edison Co. March 9 for construction of the $160-million project at Storm King Mountain near Cornwall, N.Y.

Today's hearing was called also to consider the design of fish protective devices planned for the powerhouse water intake.

The scenic Hudson Preservation Conference and the towns of Cortlandt, Putnam Valley and Yorktown on the east side of the river urged the commission on April 8 to reconsider its licensing action and schedule new hearings. The commission has not ruled on that request.

U. S. Space Firms Help To West German Industry

By JAMES V. LAMB
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Western Europe's skyrocketing industry is getting a major boost from U.S. space firms. But the U.S. companies are not giving away their lead in technology. They're interested in cooperating with European space firms primarily for one reason — sales.

"It's a two-way street," said John L. Galt, manager of international marketing for General Electric's Missile Space Division. "As long as we maintain a technical lead and keep our prices competitive, we should be doing business with Western Europe for some time."

Galt said Western Europe's space industry "has grown from virtually nothing two years ago to a $100-million to $200-million-a-year business. We expect it to continue to grow at an accelerating rate."

Galt spearheaded arrangements for the Eurospace conference now under way in this country. Eurospace is a cooperative venture by Europeans in the space business. American firms are corresponding, but nonvoting, members.

An official of one of the large

American space firms said of the Europeans: "If they're willing to buy from us, there's no reason why we shouldn't sell." He said the whole range of civilian space development is involved — communications satellites, weather satellites.

Galt said Western Europe has the financial capability of matching U.S. space accomplishments, but lacks the political motivation.

By political motivation, he said, he means the United States "has to maintain a position of leadership, technical, financial, in the eyes of the world."

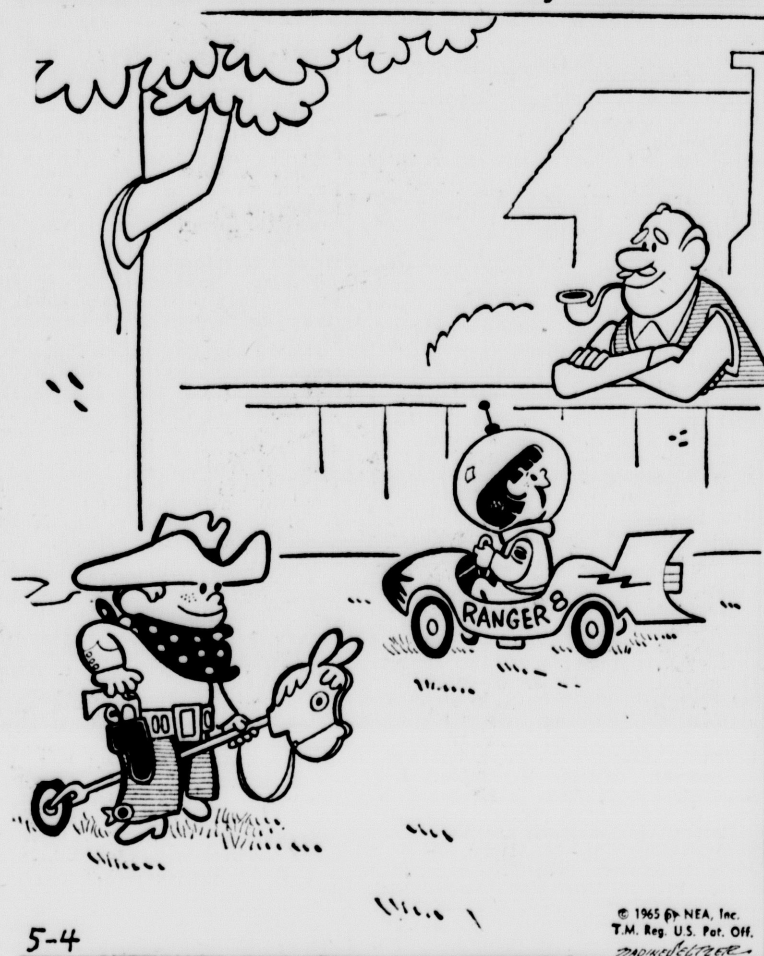

"We have a great competitor," he said, meaning the Soviet Union. "We can do no less than that competitor." He said Western European governments are not face to face with the space challenges of the Soviet Union, as is the United States.

He said U. S. firms are not giving away any technology that could be used for war. "The State Department has laid down rules what we can and cannot do," he said, "and the rules are strictly honored."

Important Item: Knowing When To Quit Office

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — "The tragedy of too many men in public office has been that they did not know when to quit," said Judge Richard M. Duncan.

The judge, 75, used the line Monday in announcing he will retire May 31 from the federal bench. He was appointed to the U.S. District Court for Missouri in 1943 on the recommendation of Harry S. Truman, then a U.S. senator. Duncan had served 10 years in Congress.

In his announcement, Judge Duncan quoted Truman as saying: "When a man serves his term in a place of importance, he ought to be willing to step aside while he is yet able to continue."

No Longer Case of Weapons, Advisers

Holding Back Red Tide Is Question of Military Force

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE
SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — One year ago, U.S. officials here were saying that the war for Viet Nam must remain a Vietnamese war — Americans would lend all necessary material and advisory support but not combat troops.

Since then U.S. official thinking has undergone a complete change.

Nearly 10,000 U.S. Marines are in Viet Nam, and paratroopers are starting to arrive. No one is willing to say just how many more American combat troops are headed this way, but it is clear that no mere token forces are involved.

What has changed American thinking?

The reason usually given is increased infiltration of guerrillas and arms from North Viet Nam. In recent months the discovery of Communist arms caches along the South Viet Nam seacoast has underscored the infiltration problem.

There are fears the Viet Cong is braced for a monsoon-season offensive dwarfing any of the Communist efforts of the past five years.

For the first time in months, American fighter-bomber and helicopter operations will be seriously curtailed by rain squalls, low overcast and fog. This can be especially dangerous in the jungle-covered mountains that make up about two-thirds of South Viet Nam's land area.

But underlying the new American push is a factor that lies close to the roots of the war itself.

Most American officials have become convinced that anti-Communist Vietnamese forces cannot defeat the Viet Cong no matter how long they try.

Many believe that a Viet Cong victory would come in a matter of weeks or even days without the gigantic support now coming from Washington.

The implications of this conclusion are grim. It means in effect that the Viet Cong already has come near to winning the political war for South Viet Nam. To hold back the Red tide now will be a question of sheer military force.

A year ago, U.S. officials feared that the use of American combat troops here could be a big propaganda setback.

Now things have gone too far to worry about the niceties of propaganda. The hope is that American troops will be able to hold the sagging line in central Viet Nam and that a second front can be opened toward North Viet Nam.

Vietnamese generals have been urging for years a frontal assault on North Viet Nam. The arrival of massive numbers of American troops here could make that a possibility.

Today in History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Tuesday, May 4, the 124th day of 1965. There are 241 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1886, a dynamite bomb exploded in the ranks of police trying to disperse a labor meeting in Chicago's Haymarket Square. Seven officers were killed; 67 wounded. Eight alleged anarchists were convicted and four of them hanged. It is not certain who threw the bomb.

On this date In 1626, Peter Minuit arrived in New York City. It was Minuit who bought Manhattan Island from the Indians.

In 1775, the first overt act of war in Virginia was committed when Patrick Henry forced Lord John Dunmore to pay for gun powder seized by the British.

In 1814, Napoleon Bonaparte reached Elba, the island of his first exile.

In 1938, Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini exchanged a pledge of eternal friendship at a meeting in Rome.

In 1945, Gen. Dwight Eisenhower declared the Germans had been whipped and had no choice left but to surrender.

Ten years ago — The main exhibition floor of the Coliseum, under construction in New York City, collapsed, killing one and injuring 51 workers.

Five years ago — President Dwight Eisenhower and India's food minister signed an agreement in Washington providing for the sale of surplus grains to India.

One year ago — The Supreme Court ruled that school boards have no constitutional duty to end racial imbalance resulting from housing patterns.

Legislators Would Roll Back Portion of ABC Reform

By CHARLES DUMAS
ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Rockefeller today faced a difficult attempt by both Republican and Democratic lawmakers to roll back a key portion of the liquor — reform program he forced through the Legislature last year.

The effort was launched Monday in the Assembly, where overwhelming approval was given to a bill that would restore the old minimum-distance rules for licensing of package stores.

Without debate, the Assembly voted, 128-10, to restate a law that barred the State Liquor Authority from granting any package-store licenses Upstate unless the premises were at least 1,000 feet away from an existing store.

In speedy fashion, the Assembly also approved, 139-6, a bill proposing to restore a similar 750-foot rule in New York City.

The bills were dispatched to the Senate for concurrence.

Both distance rules were repealed last year at the Republican governor's insistence as part of an overhaul of state liquor-licensing policies.

Rockefeller pressed for abolition of distance rules following disclosures of graft and corruption in liquor authority operations.

Should the new bills gain Senate approval, as expected, they almost certainly will be vetoed.

Among other developments: Senate backers of the Democratic off-track betting bill put off a vote on the measure in hope of rounding up enough support to rescue it from impending defeat.

— Rockefeller's bill designed to hold down Blue Cross and Blue Shield rates won final legislative approval in the Senate and was dispatched to the governor for his signature.

Democrats had opposed repeal of the liquor distance rules last year and had vowed to reinstate the old law the first chance they got. They argued that, by repealing restrictions on new licenses, the state would trigger destructive competition in the liquor business.

Repeal of the distance rules had not been popular with rank-and-file Republicans, who have smarted under a barrage of complaints from store — owner constituents.

Republicans joined also in passing Democratic-drawn bills to ease a law that holds liquor dealers unconditionally responsible for sales to youths under the legal drinking age of 18.

At present, a bartender who sells or gives liquor to a person under 18 is held responsible even if the person showed what appeared to be proof that he was old enough to drink.

One of the bills approved Monday would absolve the seller of any blame if the purchaser used "false or fraudulent means to induce such a sale."

The second measure would exempt a liquor dealer if the purchaser were convicted — under an existing law — of misrepresenting his age in order to obtain liquor.

Two other liquor bills passed by the Assembly would:

— Increase from 200 to 500 feet the radius within which a liquor license may not be issued if the premises are close to a church, synagogue or school.

— Establish an appeals board to which liquor dealers could take adverse rulings of the State Liquor Authority.

Hopeful Union To Accept Pact In Milk Strike

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Union officials left a negotiating session today to present to union members a company proposal for ending milk-delivery strike in the Albany-Troy-Schenectady area.

"We are hopeful union members will accept the proposal and we will be delivering milk Wednesday morning," said a management spokesman, John A. Bierkan of Scotia, district manager of Sealtest Foods, one of eight struck companies.

Neither he nor a spokesman for the State Mediation Board would reveal the terms of the offer.

Mediator Martin A. Wersing said he could not go so far as to call the proposal a "tentative agreement." But he said the union representatives had agreed to present it to the membership.

About 350 members of Local 787 of the Teamsters Union struck Friday midnight in a dispute over wages, hours and working conditions. They continued deliveries to hospitals and institutions.

Dems Not Eager To Approve Helm As Pa. Secretary

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP)—Pennsylvania Senate confirmation of former House Speaker W. Stuart Helm as secretary of the commonwealth may be a long way in the future, according to Democratic sources.

Republican Gov. William W. Scranton appointed Helm, a Republican, to the $20,000 a year cabinet post Monday and asked for Senate confirmation, but several Democrats indicated immediately that they do not favor the move.

Democratic disfavor could keep Helm out of the job indefinitely because the Republican majority needs seven Democratic votes to reach the two-thirds margin.

Senate Minority Leader John H. Devlin, D-Allegheny, said several Democrats object to Helm because of what they considered extreme remarks attributed to Helm during his unsuccessful bid for auditor general on the Republican ticket last November.

Any one Democrat objecting to an appointee could hold up confirmation under the Senate's unwritten tradition of respecting a senator's objections.

The office of secretary of the commonwealth was left vacant with the appointment of George I. Bloom to the Public Utility Commission. Bloom was sworn in Monday.

Fire Vol Crushed To Death at Blaze

CORTLAND, N.Y. (AP)—A volunteer fireman was crushed to death early today when a 25-foot section of concrete wall fell on him as he and his company fought a fire in the nearby Town of Harford.

State Police said Carl Edmund Jr., 29, of Harford, was using an axe to chop through a window when the wall fell. The fire was in a vacant storage barn about 100 feet to the rear of the Town of Harford Volunteer Fire Department building.

Troopers said cause of the fire was not determined.

Justification for Troops

LBJ Has Truman, Monroe Doctrines to Lean Upon

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson, whether or not Asians or Latin Americans like it, has the Truman and Monroe doctrines to lean on in seeking to justify his use of troops in the Dominican Republic and Viet Nam.

He sounds like an echo of Presidents Harry S. Truman and James Monroe. But, while the Truman doctrine started small and got big, the long-lasting Monroe Doctrine got twisted.

In 1823 Monroe, promising no U.S. interference in Europe, warned Europeans not to interfere with the independence of Latin-American countries. This plunged the United States into more than a century of isolationism.

Eventually there was some hypocrisy in the way the United States practiced the Monroe Doctrine. Although still insisting all outsiders must keep hands off Latin America, it interfered there for more than a generation after 1895.

President Theodore Roosevelt summed up the expansionist American mood in the early part of this century. He said he would "show those dagos (in Latin America) they will have to behave decently."

Legacy of Bitterness
American interference left a long legacy of Latin-American bitterness. One example: from 1916 until 1924 the United States occupied the Dominican Republic with Marines, keeping it under military rule.

More recently President John F. Kennedy in 1961 backed the disastrous Cuban invasion to topple Fidel Castro.

In 1947 President Truman ended isolationism by abandoning that part of the Monroe Doctrine which said the United States would not interfere in Europe but retained the part against all outside interference in Latin America.

Although this is having it both ways, Truman told Congress, "I believe it must be the policy of the United States to support free peoples who are resisting attempted subjugation by armed minorities or outside pressures."

This was after the war when all Eastern Europe had been gobbled by communism, Communist guerrillas were tearing Greece apart, and Turkey was in danger. Truman said, "Should we fail to aid Greece and Turkey in this fateful hour, the effect will be far-reaching to the West as well as to the East."

American Policy
This at once became, and still is, the American policy of trying to stop communism cold wherever it pushes. Truman made it a matter of American self-interest, a matter of survival, to stop any Communist encroachment anywhere.

The result: aid to Greece and Turkey; the Marshall Plan for Europe; smashing the Berlin blockade imposed by the Soviet Union; the Korean war; the NATO alliance; and, later, an association to protect Southeast Asia.

Truman made his doctrine, which started with Europe, worldwide by fighting the war in Korea to save it from communism and helping the Nationalist Chinese on Formosa stay free from Red China.

Extends Doctrine
Thus, in sending troops into South Viet Nam, Johnson has simply extended the Truman doctrine one more step. He has extended the Truman doctrine, combined with the Monroe Doctrine, to the Dominican Republic.

But Johnson didn't make the point clear right away. At first he said he was sending troops into the revolt-torn Dominican Republic to save the lives of Americans there. Later he suggested people trained outside the Dominican Republic were trying to gain control. He didn't mention Communists.

Finally he said the American goal was to "prevent another Communist state in this hemisphere." And Monday he went all out by saying U.S. troops would not leave the Dominican Republic until communism was stopped dead.

What About Castro?
He said, and this is where he combined the doctrines of his predecessors, the United States won't "let the Communists set up any government in the Western Hemisphere." He apparently forgot about Castro.

This method of gradually getting to the main point was followed by Johnson in turning loose U.S. forces to fight communism in Viet Nam. At first,

Cherry Growers Will Ballot on Marketing Order

WASHINGTON (AP)—Red tart cherry growers in eight states will begin voting Saturday in a week-long referendum on a proposed federal marketing agreement and order program for their crops.

The program advanced by the Agriculture Department is aimed at stabilizing grower prices for the fruit in Michigan, New York, Wisconsin, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Virginia, West Virginia and Maryland.

Under the measure, the quantity of red tart cherries to be marketed would be regulated. Growers have been troubled in recent years by big crops and low prices.

Excess cherries would be assigned to a reserve pool, perhaps for marketing in event of a short crop the following year.

TV Reviews, Best Bets

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The irresistible urge to play electronic tricks with communications satellite Early Bird gripped the three major television networks Monday.

All three did a portion of their evening news roundups via the transatlantic satellite. NBC's Hugh Downs was stationed on a rainy London street in the morning while his "Today Show" colleagues were broadcasting from other landmarks in Rome and Paris.

Monday night David Brinkley received his usual goodnight from Chet Huntley in London. But it was CBS which forcefully demonstrated the importance of our new, two-way live television link between nations with its "Town Meeting of the World," broadcast live in the early afternoon and repeated Monday night.

It was an exciting and illuminating hour with Secretary of State Dean Rusk in Washington, British Foreign Minister Michael Stewart in London, French Deputy Maurice Schumann and former British Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home in Paris and Barry Goldwater in New York.

Perhaps none of the participants advanced any new ideas. Perhaps no positions were changed or modified. But for the average anxious citizen just to sit in on such an informed, high-level talk was enlightening and somehow reassuring.

Just as NBC was being generally conceded the victor's palm in the season's Nielsen ratings sweepstakes, along comes the final rating report before the onset of summer rerun time. It makes CBS a winner by an eyelash.

The national Nielsen averages for the two-week period ending April 18 gave CBS a rating of 18.8, ABC 18.3 and NBC 18.0.

The 10 most popular programs of the two-week period, according to Nielsen, were, in order, the Academy Awards show, Bonanza, Gomer Pyle, Bewitched, the Dick Van Dyke Show, The Fugitive, The Andy Griffith Show, Beverly Hills, Peyton Place, (Thursday night episodes), and Gunsmoke.

SEND APOLOGY LETTER EXPLAINING ABSENCE

Q: Last evening my wife and I were supposed to go to a buffet party given by a business friend and his wife. We accepted the invitation a while back and had every intention of going. But when we were getting ready to leave, we received an emergency call from my wife's mother and we had to rush over there and consequently couldn't get to the party. I would like to know if a note should be written to the hostess apologizing for our not going to her party.

Drinking With Food in Mouth

Q: Is it considered bad manners to take a sip of coffee, tea or other beverage while there is food in the mouth? In other words, must the mouth be completely cleared of all food before taking a drink of anything?

A: It is best manners not to put liquid into the mouth while there is food in it. However, if the amount of food is so little as to be undetectable to others, it is permissible to take a sip of coffee or other beverage.

The Meaning of R.S.V.P.

Q: Will you please tell me what the letters R.S.V.P. stand for on an invitation? I know it means that guests are expected to reply, but what I am really interested in finding out is the actual translation of these letters.

A: R.S.V.P. is the abbreviation of the French, "Repondez s'il vous plait" which translated into English means, "Reply if you please."

Home Extension Service News

Summer health hazards are discussed in the following article by Elizabeth D. Overbaugh, home demonstration agent:

Warm weather is always welcome, but its blessings are not unmixed. The best rule to follow, as summer approaches, is to try to use the proverbial ounce of prevention: avoid overexposure to the sun and overexercise; observe common-sense water safety rules; don't let the children romp in a potential poison ivy patch.

But the biggest single summer hazard is minor accidents. Unavoidably, a family's "harvest" of cuts, scrapes, and bruises increases in direct proportion to its outdoor activities.

Even the most skilled backyard chef is likely to singe himself at least once each season.

Power lawn mowers are a well-known warm weather hazard. So are rakes, shears, and other edged or tined tools—especially when left carelessly lying about the yard.

Expect the youngsters to get their usual lumps—at least one or two tumbles off the trike or the playground swing. Here then are some helpful hints on how to deal with the accidents that should never happen but did.

Infection doesn't necessarily follow even when minor injuries are completely ignored, but the risk is always there. An abrasion less than the size of a postage stamp means that at least three million cells in the skin tissues have been damaged.

Until Nature repairs the injury, the wound is an open invitation to countless disease organisms which swarm over the skin's surface. That's why it's wise to observe these ABC's of modern treatment: cleanse the wound thoroughly with warm water and mild soap; permit the body's own defense to go to work; protect the injured area from contamination. Roll bandages, sterile gauze, adhesive tape, and adhesive bandages are essential equipment for treating minor hurts.

Insect bites, minor skin irritations, and the like may be dealt with effectively by applying a calamine lotion. Chapped skin hardly calls for more than a simple application of petrolatum. What about antiseptics? Preparations like iodine are too strong for direct use on an open cut or wound. They may cause further injury, and in a small child the sting very likely will start a fresh flood of tears. One answer to this is to use a stingless ointment combining several antibiotics, each of which is effective against certain kinds of germs usually found on the skin.

If the wound is a deep puncture, it would be wise to consult a doctor; besides checking the seriousness of the wound, he may give a tetanus booster as a precaution. In fact, whenever you're in doubt about the seriousness of an accident, don't delay getting the victim to a doctor.

Neely-LaFera Wedding Is Announced

MR. AND MRS. LEONARD ADAM LaFERA
(Benton Photo)

Miss Mary Ann Neely, daughter of Mrs. Irene Neely of Middletown, N. Y., and the late William E. Neely, exchanged marriage vows with Leonard Adam LaFera, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph LaFera Sr., of Rosendale, N. Y., on April 25, 1965 at 2 p. m. in St. Joseph's Church, Middletown, N. Y. Officiating clergyman was the Rev. Joseph May CSSR.

Mary Hallinan was organist for the double ring ceremony. Patricia Neely was maid of honor for her sister. Other attendants were the Misses Lydia LaFera, Rosendale, Jeanne Lefter, Albany, Charlotte Roselli, Middletown, and Mrs. Mark Cramer of Ellenville. Jeanne LaFera of Rosendale, the bridegroom's niece, was flower girl.

Vincent LaFera of Rosendale was best man for his brother. Ushering were Donald LaFera, Joseph LaFera Jr., and Robert LaFera, all brothers of the bridegroom, and Stanley Robin of Ellenville.

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle Joseph McGugan. She wore a chapel length gown of peau de soie. The bodice was highlighted with seed pearls and Chantilly lace. Her envelope skirt was bordered with appliques of lace and embroidery of seed pearls. A large opened rose with lace embroidered petals held her butterfly illusion veil. She carried a bouquet of gladiolus centered with a white orchid.

The maid of honor wore a pale blue peau de soie gown highlighted with a basque bodice and a bustle back skirt. A triple tiered veil was held by a bow and she carried yellow iris and eucalyptus. The attendants were dressed identically to that of the maid of honor and they carried yellow and blue iris and eucalyptus. The flower girl, also in pale blue peau de soie, carried a basket of yellow rose petals.

A reception was given in the American Legion Lodge.

Dear Abby . . .

He's Been Scalped!

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: When my father saw my report card, he hit the ceiling. He said there was no excuse for grades like mine, and from now on I was going to act and look like a human being instead of a sheep dog. Then he went and got the scissors and cut my bangs. All the kids wear bangs down over their foreheads, just covering their eyebrows. I think it looks neat. So what if my grades weren't so great? Do you think cutting my hair was any solution? Yours for a speedy answer,

PAUL

DEAR PAUL: Your father was annoyed with you because your grades were poor and he punished you by attacking your bangs because they annoyed him, too, and were handy. Get those grades up, Paul. And if they are really good next report card time, I'll bet your father won't care if you wear your hair in a pony tail.

DEAR ABBY: Apropos your comment that the "male determines the sex of the child": Please let me assure you that it is indeed a female who makes the choice. Not the wife, however, but the vixen, Lady Luck. To be sure, the sperm cells carry the sex-determining load of chromosomes; but the male supplies great quantities of both kinds—apparently in equal numbers. And it is pure chance which will predominate. Perhaps it is not "pure" chance but, if not, it is just as likely that conditions in the female may favor "girl-making" or "boy-making" sperms as it is that the male asserts influence on this preponderantly random process. Let's not oversimplify.

ANN ONYMOUS

DEAR ANN: Assuming you are correct, and it is all a matter of "pure chance," who made "Luck" a lady?

Walks Contribute To KHS Defeat; Scott Fans 14

By ED PALLADINO
Freeman Sports Staff

Bases on balls, a big bugaboo for most pitchers, haunted Brian Bach yesterday at Dietz Stadium.

As a result, Newburgh Free Academy jolted the DUSO pennant hopes of Kingston's defending champions with a 2-1 verdict, knocking the locals out of first place and inflicting on them their initial setback of the season.

Though Bach pitched his best game of the season, he had control trouble in two of the seven innings and walks led to both NFA runs. Mickey Scott, the stylish southpaw, limited the locals to four hits and passed only one to earn a tough decision.

After three scoreless frames, the Goldies hit paydirt in the fourth. Les Lawler reached first when Jack Schatzel booted his grounder. After Mike Doogan sacrificed him to second, Ray Lease was struck out and Bach appeared to be out of the inning.

Hit By a Pitch

However, he lost his control, walking Scott and first baseman Pete Petrillo to clog the sacks. The hard throwing righty then got two quick strikes on weak hitting Barry Schuyler. The third pitch struck Schuyler in the foot and he was awarded first base as Lawler crossed the dish.

Coach Mike Rienzo's club quickly scored the equalizer as John Eccleston sliced an opposite field triple and Bill Palen delivered him with a ringing double to left center. However, with a runner on second and nobody out, Scott settled down to retire the side and snuff out the bid.

Scores Clincher

Bach recorded two quick outs in the NFA fifth but then walked Lawler on a 3-2 pitch. Les swiped second and tallied when Doogan's high fly to left fell in front of Palen for a hit.

The only threat the rest of the way was made by Newburgh in the seventh but Bach pitched his way out of a jam.

Scott, who mixed his fast ball with a good curve, fanned 14 batters. His defense played flawless ball behind him. Bach had eight strikeouts and except for his control lapses, might be dueling his left-handed opponent far into the night.

The locals, now 1-1 in circuit play, have a road engagement on Thursday at Poughkeepsie. The Pioneers are knotted for first place with Port, having beaten Newburgh last week. It will be up to Gene Rios to pitch his mates back into pennant contention.

Locke Resigns Army Cage Job

Takes Position At Miami of Ohio

By ED PALLADINO
Freeman Sports Staff

Taylor (Tate) Locke, who put the basketball team at West Point in the spotlight for two successive seasons, has resigned to accept the position as freshman basketball coach at Miami, Ohio University, effective Sept. 1.

In returning to his alma mater, Locke will guide the frosh for one year and will take over the varsity coaching reins after the 1965-66 season.

A 40-15 Record

The youthful and personable Locke guided the Cadets to a 40-15 record during his two years as head coach, including a pair of third place finishes in the National Invitational tournament at Madison Square Garden.

In accepting the job at Miami, Locke cited the difficulties at West Point, where football is the number one sport. He has claimed on more than one occasion that basketball is not given the recognition it deserves as a major sport at the Academy.

Locke was an enlisted man when he took over the freshman job at West Point. When George Hunter left the Academy, Locke was promoted to varsity coach, though he was a civilian at the time.

An All-American

With Locke at the helm, Army has developed its first All-American cage candidate. He's Mike Silliman, a 6-6 star from Kentucky. Silliman and the rest of the Cadet squad will return next year, giving Locke's successor a good nucleus.

A spokesman at the Military Academy said that Locke's resignation didn't come as a complete surprise. The Athletic Board at West Point is expected to meet within the next several days, possibly to discuss the matter and consider applicants.

There are reportedly several applications for the position.

When Locke takes over the varsity job after next year, he will replace Dick Shriver, who will step aside to devote full time as the school's athletic director.

Driver Frank Ervin relinquished the lead briefly in the first quarter before taking charge at the paddock turn. Bret Hanover was never headed thereafter, posting a final half clocking of 39.55 with a final quarter of 29.25. The mile went in 2:02 1/5.

Hogan Is Named Greatest Golfer

NEW YORK (AP)—Ben Hogan has been named the greatest professional golfer of all time in a poll of the nation's golf writers and sports editors.

Brilliant Shooting

Newburgh Golfers Rip Kingston High 11 to 1

Newburgh Free Academy's all-veteran golf varsity staged a dazzling exhibition of shooting to trounce Kingston High, 11-1, in a DUSO League match Monday over the rugged Powelton links at Newburgh.

With three players firing 1-over-par 71's, the Goldbacks swept all four singles tests and outstroked the Maroons, 291-302.

The jolting reversal snapped the Maroon's modest two-match winning streak. The Kingston swingers hardly folded but the Goldbacks just had too much.

Neil Pauker and Bob Barthel posted 73's but only picked up half points in the No. 1 and No. 2 singles. Jordan Pauker had 74 and Sam Spiegel 82.

Four Veterans

Pete Spiegel, Al Nannow, and Bob Hurd all fired 71's for NFA's all-veteran squad. Pete Polhemus posted 78 in the No. 4 slot.

Kingston seeks to regain its winning touch against Poughkeepsie High Wednesday at 4 p. m. at Twaitskill.

Buytkins Gets Winning Marker; Hurls Decision

Late inning rallies are becoming a trademark of the Ulster County Community College baseball team.

Yesterday at Cantine Field, the Senators scored an eighth inning rally to send the game into overtime and scored two in the last of the 10th to offset one tallied by Dutchess Community College in the top of the frame to nip the visitors, 8-7.

It was the second straight decision for the locals, who travel to Sullivan County for a Saturday contest.

Paul (Boots) Buytkins hurled the distance for Ulster. He limited Dutchess to seven hits but gave up eight walks, keeping him in constant hot water.

John Crispino, a teammate of Buytkins at Saugerties High, was the starter for the visitors. Scott Doby and Pete Scofield relieved with Scofield getting charged with the loss.

Winning Rally

It was Buytkins who tallied the winning run. He followed a 10th inning walk to George Druettman with a single. Scofield then uncorked a pair of wild pitches, scoring Druettman with the tying marker and moving Buytkins to third.

On a ground ball to the mound, Scofield threw to third and Buytkins was caught in a rundown. However, the Saugerties ace beat the throw home to score the winning marker. It was quite a finish.

The Senators collected 16 safeties with Dave Horton getting two singles and a second inning home with one on.

Onteora Nips Red Hook, 11-7

Onteora Central and Red Hook exchanged six run innings but the Indians had a four-run frame and stopped the home side, 11-7, yesterday in a non-league contest.

The six run explosion by Red Hook sent the Hookers ahead, 7-5, starting the final session. Coach Paul Jordan's team rallied for its half dozen markers to put the game out of reach.

Highlights of the rally were a bases load-d single by Gary Beesmer and Russ Carlson's squeeze bunt. Beesmer's hit knotted the count and Carlson's safety produced the clincher.

The Indians entered New Paltz today and Highland on Friday in UCL tussles.

Leon Hanna, Dick Plaatsman and Joe Darwak won two events each as the Kingston High track team easily defeated Our Lady of Lourdes, 91-45, yesterday in Poughkeepsie.

The locals experienced little difficulty with the slow Lourdes track, which has a lot of turns. Hanna captured the 100 yard dash in the slow time of 11.4, well below his winning 10.2 effort of last week. He also won the 220 in 25.5 seconds.

Plaatsman captured the 440 in 56.5 seconds and went 37 feet to win the triple jump. Darwak soared 5-6 in the high jump and did 17 feet, 11 inches in the broad jump.

The locals, co-coached by Bill Hurley and Frank Modica, will host Poughkeepsie on Thursday and will participate in the Hudson Valley Relays at New Paltz on Saturday.

Retires First 15

After the Ohio farmboy retired the first 15 Red Sox, Ed Bressoud led off the sixth inning with a grounder to first baseman Costen Shockley.

Chance raced to cover first, but Shockley's throw was wide.

Six consecutive outs later, fourth teammate Lee Thomas started the eighth with a line single to right field, breaking up Chance's bid for a no-hitter.

The victory, in which he reduced his earned-run average from 3.27 to 2.32, kept Chance exactly even with the 1962 pace that carried him to a 20-9 record and the Cy Young Award as the majors' best pitcher. He brought his record to 2-0 on May 3 last season, too.

In the only other games played, Kansas City defeated Washington 3-3 in the American League and St. Louis stopped San Francisco 3-1 in the National.

The Angels' scored their lone run with the help of an error in the third inning. Jose Cardenal led off with a single and raced all the way home when centerfielder Lenny Green let Albie Pearson's single get by him for an error.

Successive Homers

Successful home runs by Nellie Mathews and Ken Harrelson off Pete Richter in the second inning started Kansas City on its way. The Senators' Ken McMullen gave the Athletics two runs on his bases-loaded error in the fourth but then drove in two himself with a homer and a single.

Curt Simmons pitched a five-hitter, allowing the Giants only Willie Mays' sixth homer in the ninth. The Cardinals scored twice in the sixth on consecutive singles by Tito Franco, Ken Boyer, Bill White and Phil Gagliano before Tim McCarver bounced into the season's second triple play.

Pitcher Ron Herbel took McCarver's tap back to the mound and threw to Jose Pagan for the force on Gagliano at second. Pagan's relay to Willie McCovey nailed McCarver at first, and McCovey completed the play by firing to catcher Tom Haller for the out on White, trying to score from second.

Budget and Trustee Voting Slated in Oteora Wednesday

Voters of the Oteora Central Schools District go to the polls Wednesday with all normally reliable barometers projecting the quietest election day in many years.

Voting will be held between the hours of 2 p. m. and 9 p. m. at the four polling places in the district: Phoenixia elementary school, Oteora central building at Boiceville, and the elementary schools at Woodstock and West Hurley.

There has been no organized opposition to the proposed budget of $2,819,187 and Board of Education president Philip Gordon and Trustees David Carlson of Woodstock are unopposed for reelection to five year terms. Gordon has been a member of the Board of Education continuously since the district was created 17 years ago. Carlson will be seeking his second term.

3,655 Voters Eligible
A record total of 3,655 voters, 47 more than the previous high of 3,608, are eligible to vote this year. Forty seven new voters have registered—15 on April 14 and 37 on April 22. Less than 50 per cent of the voters are expected to exercise their franchise.

Based on the assumption that the Conference Board Bill passes in Albany and area equalization rates remain constant, the projected 1965-66 tax levy of $1,707,086 would be $27,899 less than the 1964-65 total of $1,734,985.

Voters will also vote on a $7,956 appropriation for town libraries within the school district.

The major items of current expense, as usual, are instructional costs—$1,589,303 from $1,477,235 last year, representing 56.5 per cent of the total budget. Transportation (9.6 per cent) is up slightly from $243,918 in 1964-65 to $260,901 for the next school year.

Salaries on Par
A check of other school district salary schedules indicate that the Oteora schedule is at least on a par and in some areas higher than the prevailing medians.

Administrative salaries proposed for 1965-66 are as follows: Superintendent of Schools Dr. George R. Sullivan, $17,250; Watson I. Goodrich, assistant to superintendent and director of transportation, $10,800; Paul T.

Runge, high school principal, $13,200; Edward S. Witko, vice principal, $11,200; Ronald P. Vanni, director of elementary education, $11,900; William A. Yeaple, guidance director, $11,000.

Elementary school principals' salaries are: Ernie M. Levins, West Hurley, $10,000; Walter S. Van Wagenen, Woodstock, $11,000; Robert W. Maroney, Phoenixia, $10,750.

The average salary for 65 secondary teachers at Oteora is $7,762, from a low of $5,440 to a high of $11,250. In the elementary schools the ranges and averages are as follows: Bennett (21), $7,980 average, $5,940-$9,950; West Hurley (23), $7,590 average, $5,500-$10,060; Woodstock (22), $7,130 average, $5,500 - $9,740; Phoenixia (11), $7,640 average, $5,700-$8,520.

There are four nurse - dental hygienist employees with an average salary of $7,490, from $6,880 - $8,800; custodial - vehicular (25), $4,418, $3,550 - $7,700; and clerical (23), $3,670 average, $2,073 - $4,836.

State Aid $886,175

Anticipated gross state aid is estimated at $886,175.00 on the assumption the Conference Board Bill will be passed by the legislature. It is no change in the existing State Aid Formula the receipts will be reduced by $114,286 and an increase in the tax levy equal to that amount will be necessary.

As the result of prudent Board of Education investment practices a total of $84,966 will show as a receipt. This sum includes interest received on general fund investment, sale of construction bonds, and interest on construction prior to expenditure for construction.

Lists of qualified voters have been posted in many public places in the district. It is pointed out that qualified voters may vote on any question brought before any annual or special meeting. It is not essential that a person be a taxpayer to vote on propositions for raising money by tax on the district.

Board president Philip Gordon has termed the proposed budget as "the tightest in my 17 years on the school board." It appears the electorate will support his position with a substantial plurality on Wednesday.

Award Syracuse Scholarship to Margaret Ruff

Mrs. Margaret Ruff, reading teacher at the Oteora Central Schools, has been awarded a scholarship for a Remedial Reading Institute at Syracuse University this summer, it was announced today by Ronald P. Vanni, director of Elementary Education, at Oteora.

The scholarship, provided for under Title XI of the National Defense Education Act, is intended for experienced teachers and supervisors who are working or will work in the field of reading.

Only 50 applicants were selected from a field of several candidates. The course, offering six hours of graduate credit, will be divided into three major units: (a) diagnosis, (b) remedial techniques and (c) planning school reading programs.

Each participant will be assigned to a student in need of reading instruction whom she will observe in demonstrations of diagnosis and remedial teaching and for whom she will design a program of continued remediation.

Mrs. Ruff, a Woodstock resident, has been employed by the Oteora schools since September, 1959. She holds a Bachelor of Arts degree from the University of Chicago and a Master of Arts degree from New York University. She is currently remedial reading teacher at the Bennett elementary and Phoenixia elementary schools in the OCS district.

ARBOR DAY PROGRAM—Participating in an Arbor Day program at the Reginald R. Bennett Elementary school at Boiceville were the following pupils: standing—Bill Bradley, Diane Reffelt, Corinne Hutchinson, Anne Witko and Paul Dibbell. Seated—Jennie Buton and Eve Moscovitz, who directed the program.

Bennett Banner Staff Presents Arbor Day Event

A special radio broadcast over the school's public address system highlighted the Arbor Day program at the Reginald R. Bennett Elementary School in Boiceville.

The program was prepared by members of the Bennett Banner staff, students in Mrs. Emma Argulewicz's sixth grade.

Paul Dibbell was announcer and William Bradley served as Master of Ceremonies. Diane Reffelt discussed the meaning and history of Arbor Day. She said it is a day set aside for planting trees, a custom started by J. Sterling Morton, in Nebraska. The purpose of tree planting is to enrich, moisten and conserve the soil.

Corinne Hutchinson, news staff chief for the Bennett Banner, reported the news flash—that trees and shrubs, gifts of the 1965 graduating class, had been planted on the school grounds. Trees and shrubs included were sythia bushes, barberries and lilac bushes.

Bennett Banner reporter Anne Witko reminded her audience that the last issue of the Banner was devoted to the theme "Conservation." She then recited the conservation pledge and urged her audience to abide by it.

Jennie Buton, in charge of commercials, read several important messages from her sponsor, The Bennett Banner, during the program. The entire production was under the direction of Eve Moscovitz.

Former Critic Has Praise for Proposed Budget

A Wittenberg taxpayer who was highly critical of the 1964-65 Oteora Central school budget has come out with endorsement of the proposed 1965-66 budget which will be voted on Wednesday.

Mrs. Jean Rickard also urged greater taxpayer attendance at monthly Board of Education meetings.

Her statement follows: Last year I criticized the budget submitted by the Board of Education of the Oteora Central School District—this year I want to commend the Board for its sincere effort. I also want to commend the administration for its efficient investment of tax and building fund monies to increase the district's income.

Tempered by its by-laws and policies, the Board of Education is presenting a budget reflecting a compromise between the requests for services, materials and equipment and its own determination of the district's needs to maintain and improve the school program. Apparently there will be no rise in tax rate IF equalization rates remain the same and IF the state decides to increase school aid (using most of our money, of course).

In my criticism last year I compared figures which were not properly comparable. Embarrassed, I determined to learn more about the responsibilities of the Board of Education by attending the board meetings and by studying its by-laws and policies, and budgets and financial statements of past years.

Scores Policies

"I have found that over the past ten or eleven years the people of the district, by default, have permitted the Board of Education to formulate and adopt policies which, I believe, have increased taxes. These policies are in effect now and they affect the preparation of the budget.

"Board by-laws and policies, I believe, are discussed and adopted at board meetings. By staying away from these meetings the taxpayers have abdicated their responsibility and, in effect, have given 'carte blanche' to the board. Correction of this situation will require much more effort on the part of the taxpayers than would have been required to maintain a check through the years. The by-laws and policies and other materials are always available to the people for study. I have found that the members of the board are anxious to hear what the people have to say.

"I urge taxpayers of the Oteora Central School District to: 1) elect qualified members to the Board of Education, and 2) attend the regular Board of Education meeting each third Monday of the month. "The taxpayers will then exercise an influence on the board, and will be able to save considerable expense. It costs several thousand dollars every time a budget is rejected."

Schnapps Will Help

SAGINAW, Mich. (AP) — A glass of schnapps was to help George Lintz of Saginaw celebrate his 110th birthday today. "Hard work" was the answer when a reporter asked Lintz to what he attributed his long life, most of which he has spent in Saginaw County as a dredge operator and farmer.

Lintz, who was born in the Erie County, N.Y., community of Akron, farmed until he reached the age of 96. He now resides with his daughter and son-in-law.

In addition to the schnapps, Lintz enjoys an occasional cigar or pipe.

Toronto Moves To Second Spot

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Toronto's Maple Leafs have maneuvered themselves into position to challenge Atlanta's front-running Crackers for the top spot in the International League.

The Leafs' 3-1 victory Monday night over the Jacksonville Suns, combined with Syracuse's 7-1 triumph over the Columbus Jets, enabled Toronto to take over second place, just 1 1/2 games out of first.

In other games, Atlanta defeated Buffalo's Bisons 6-4, and Rochester's Red Wings smashed Toledo 12-7.

Toronto used the long ball and the three-hit pitching of Bill Spanswick and Mike Sinks to down the Suns.

Atlanta left-hander Dick Kelley racked up his fourth victory without a defeat at Buffalo's expense. The Bisons grabbed a 2-0 lead by the end of the second inning but Atlanta got a run back in the third on a walk and two singles.

Rochester's victory over Toledo enabled the Wings to displace Jacksonville in fourth place. Rochester unleashed a 15-hit attack on three Hen pitcher. Tom Phoebus was the winner, although he required relief in the seventh.

Lou Jackson and Andry Etchebarren struck homers for the Wings and Roger Repoz connected for the losers.

Rojas blasted solo homers in the third and sixth innings and capped a four-run seventh inning with a two-run triple that narrowly missed being homer No. 3.

Bruce Brubaker, who won 15 games for the Chiefs last season, posted his first victory of the year. He yielded three hits and one run in the first inning and allowed only three more safeties during the remainder of the game.

DOCK LANTERN

IF YOU FISH AT NIGHT WITH A BOAT, IT'S EASIER TO FIND YOUR DOCK ON YOUR RETURN IF YOU'VE LEFT IT LIGHTED. INEXPENSIVE KEROSENE LANTERNS ARE IDEAL FOR THIS PURPOSE; THEY'LL BURN FOR HOURS ON A SINGLE FILLING OF OIL, WAX, OR WIRE ONE SO IT CAN'T BE UPSET UPON THE DOCK OR BEACH. (WIRING IT ALSO NOTIFIES CURIOUS PASSERS-BY THAT IT WASN'T ACCIDENTALLY LEFT BURNING, AND NONE BUT A SNEAKY THIEF WILL CARRY IT AWAY!)

Every litter bit hurts

Grown-ups know. But they forget. And the careless habit of littering on land or water, is unhealthy and unattractive. Floating litter is a safety hazard. Litter causes pollution of waterways... spoils good fishing spots and the natural beauty of America's lakes, streams and rivers. Make it a rule to carry a litterbag in your boat and use it. If we grown-ups remember, our kids won't forget to Keep America Beautiful!

Fund Over $2,000 Shandaken Nets $1,200 for Cancer At Recent Dinner

According to Mrs. William McGrath Jr., director of the Ulster County Cancer Unit, "The 1965 Cancer Crusade and dinner were an unqualified success. The whole community got into the spirit of giving to the great cause as never before. More people gave food, service and time. The 400 guests at the Hofbrau donated approximately $1200 at the dinner, bringing the grand total of the Shandaken Crusade over to $2000. Every committee member, every helper, every donor deserves the utmost credit and has the most profound thanks of the American Cancer Society."

At the last minute, some new hands were offered to help the Ricciardellis, hosts of the evening: Vera Wilkins, Edward Tick, Leonard Beckman and Sonia Orgera.

Saugerties Board Awards $3,872 Insurance Contract

The insurance contract totaling $3,872 for one year to cover village properties was awarded at the Monday night meeting of Saugerties Village Board.

The Sauer-Teetsel Agency, Main Street submitted the low bid which was $23.10 lower than the next low bidder, Lezette-Lachmann Agency, also Main Street. The insurance committee of the Board of Trustees, who studied the bids, made the recommendation to accept the bid of Sauer-Teetsel. Coverage includes fire, extended coverage, comprehensive, general and auto liability, vandalism and malicious mischief on all buildings and property owned by the Village of Saugerties.

Hearings Scheduled
Village Clerk James V. Gage announced that the Zoning Board of Appeals has scheduled a hearing on a request of variance of the zoning ordinance by Paul Pavlovich regarding the former Bonsteel sanitarium property at the corner of Main and Cedar Street. Pavlovich is seeking a variance of the property from residential U1 to apartment and boardinghouse U3.

Mrs. Ann Karashay owns the property and it is understood that if variance is granted Pavlovich will purchase the site for the construction of a multiple dwelling apartment house with six units.

The hearing has been set for Friday, May 21 at 7 p. m. in the village clerk's office.

A delegation of residents from the southside attended the session and complained about speeding on East Bridge Street. The Village Board said it would have police patrols increased in the area to alleviate the problem.

Suggest New Bus Stop
The delegation was also concerned with the safety of school children waiting for the school bus at the C. A. Lynch Firehouse. They suggested that a school bus station be set up at the rear of the School Administration Building nearby. Mayor Cornelius Cox said this matter will have to be directed to the Board of Education.

Power Transmission Products of Mineola, L. I., was awarded the contract for promal chain and attachments to be used at the sewer plant. The Mineola was the lowest of three bidders. Bid for the chain was $1,800.32 and for attachments $125.

Trustee Gregory Mulstay, sewer commissioner, reported that the Dock Street building of the sewer plant had been repaired.

Trustee Maurice Clements reported he had a request from a septic tank cleaning firm asking permission to dump their collections into the digester at the village sewer plant. The firm indicated it would be willing to pay for the permission. Mayor Cox named Clement, Mulstay and Arthur D. York to a committee to investigate the matter and bring back a report at the next meeting.

Comments Department
Trustee Donald McCaig, fire commissioner, reported that fire inspections had started in the village and would continue to May 31. He commended the Fire Department and Fire Chief LeRoy Snyder for the alert action in saving the Van Buskirk building from fire Monday night. He also commended the fire police for keeping the traffic moving.

Fire Commissioner McCaig said the Van Buskirk fire stressed the need of a smoke ejector. (Funds for an ejector are in this year's village budget.) McCaig said the local department borrowed an ejector from Malden-West Camp Fire Company which had its emergency truck at the fire scene.

Washington Hook and Ladder Company received an invitation to take its truck to the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association convention parade at Highland on Aug. 7.

Police Commissioner Charles W. Steele reported he checked on a request of Salvatore Ferraro for special permission to allow teenage children to use the facilities of Community Billiard rooms on Main Street during certain daytime hours. The commissioner said the Village Board was unable to grant permission as it would be in violation of the State Penal Code.

Commissioner Steele also reported he was preparing specification for the bidding on a new police patrol car.

Mediators Ready

one involved in the Southern Tier dispute.

Contracts involved in both major disputes had expired at midnight Friday.

No General Walkout
There was no general walkout until today, however, because union representatives said they would observe a one-week, no-strike moratorium requested by Albany Mayor Erastus Corning.

About 400 bricklayers in Albany and Troy and lathers in Schenectady stayed away from their jobs Monday, however, contending they had been threatened with a lockout.

Eastern-area union leaders say they will not negotiate unless talks include a 7-hour work day.

A spokesman for the Southern Tier Builders Association a clause governing transportation a 92 cents hourly wage and fringe benefit increase over three years. They now are paid $3.25 an hour, plus 10 cents an hour in hospital benefits.

The Southern Tier strike involves about 120 contractors and 3,000 workers.

More negotiations were on tap in the Niagara County strike involving Local 483 International Union of Operating Engineers, and Local 51, Wood, Wire & Metal Lathers. Unions and contractors have failed to agree on wage and overtime issues and a clause governing transportation to work sites.

Kennecott Earnings Up
NEW YORK (AP) — Kennecott Copper Corp. reported today that earnings rose 43 per cent to $25,245,111, or $2.28 a share, in the first quarter of 1965.

In the 1964 first quarter they were $17,563,284, or $1.59 a share.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP) — Steels were lower but the stock market managed to carve out an irregular rise in fairly active trading early this afternoon.

Steels were depressed by the finding of a special government study of the steel industry which stated that the industry did not need to raise prices now and could raise wages about 3 per cent a year.

Blue chips made enough gains to counteract the losses by steels.

Coppers gave belated recognition to the rise in price for copper. Most of the major copper producers showed gains.

Scattered blue chips among chemicals, retails and tobaccos rose.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .5 at 341.5 with industrials up 1.0, rails up .1 and utilities unchanged.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was up 2.91 at 925.02.

Jones & Laughlin was up 1 while fractional losses were taken by U.S. Steel, Bethlehem and Republic Steel.

Texas Gulf Sulphur fell about a point and Pan American Sulphur more than a point in a continued retreat.

Prices were generally higher in active trading on the American Stock Exchange.

Burglars Break Moose Lodge Safe, Remove $150 Cash

Approximately $150 was removed from a 300-pound safe by burglars Monday night or early today after entry was gained in the lodge rooms of Kingston Lodge 970, Loyal Order of the Moose at 82 Prince Street, Kingston police reported.

Police said an undetermined amount was also taken from the pool table, juke box and cigarette machines which were pried open.

Det. Guernsey Burger said the front of the safe was ripped off and from $150 to $175 was removed. Entry was gained by forcing a rear door.

Investigating with Det. Burger were Lt. Lemuel Howard and Officer Wilmont Hall.

Also sometime after 11 p. m. last night entry was gained at the Christian and Missionary Alliance Church, Pine and Franklin Streets, and a tape recorder and movie projector were taken, police said. The drawers and safe - type file cabinet were pried open but nothing was reported missing. Lt. Howard and Det. Burger are investigating.

Entry was made by forcing a basement door.

OAS Peace Move
that some of the rebels were beginning to hide their weapons and give up the struggle, at least for the time being.

President Johnson said in a speech Monday night: "We don't propose to sit here on our rocking chair with c.r. hands folded and let the Communists set up a government anywhere in this hemisphere."

Johnson reaffirmed his determination to see that peace is restored and that the Dominican people are given hope of a stable government before U.S. troops pull out.

Both the junta and the rebels stood firm on certain points in their talks with the OAS committee.

Col. Pedro Benoit of the junta said unconditional surrender of all arms held by civilians would be essential to any settlement.

Caamano said his insurgent followers would not "accept any political solution that is not constitutional." He insisted in an interview that the rebels seek only the return of exiled President Juan Bosch and constitutional government.

The constitution was junked after the military ousted Bosch in September 1963. He had been the nation's first popularly elected president after more than 30 years of dictatorship.

Dental About Reids
Caamano, a U.S.-trained career soldier, denied claims by President Johnson and other U.S. officials that Communists are involved in his movement.

He declared that his forces do not accept "dictatorship of either the left or the right."

Osiasde Mora-Oviedo, a leader of Bosch's Dominican Revolutionary party, and Ramon Gabriel Ledesma Perez, president of the party's political committee, admitted that a few Communists were interested in the rebel movement.

Ledesma added, however, that "this small group of Communists hasn't the slightest possibility of taking control of the movement."

When a motoredcade of OAS negotiators and newsmen entered the rebel zone Monday, crowds chanted "Juan Bosch and constitution" and broke into the Dominican national anthem.

A tour of the sector showed few signs of battle, although several buildings were scarred. No bodies were seen in the area through which the newsmen passed.

President Johnson said Monday night the bodies of 1,000 to 1,500 persons killed in the streets of the capital, Rebel leaders said the dead were being cremated since there were no facilities to bury them.

Mississippi Is
quarters in New Canton, Ill., said excessive backups in a tributary of the Mississippi near Pleasant Hill, have increased the need for reinforcing dikes.

Hannibal, with a population of 20,000 and Quincy, with 45,000 residents, are on high ground, not in danger of flooding. Some industries just south of Quincy are threatened.

Flood officials have said that the flood danger will diminish when the river crests in the Quincy-Hannibal area. South of Louisiana, Mo., the tide flows into wider river bottoms where the threat is expected to be negligible.

EXPANSION PROGRAM
SHOULD REWARD
PATIENT INVESTOR

Q "Over the past ten years, I have accumulated about 2,000 shares of Franklin National Bank Stock. This issue has usually acted well, but lately has been a little bit off. Is this because the bank has been engaged in an expansionary move in N. Y. City? Would you continue to hold the stock?" R.K.

A I should like to commend you on accumulating such a large block of so strong a stock as Franklin National. Earnings were down last year and again in the first quarter of 1965, probably due — as you suggest — to expansionary costs. Last month, Franklin opened its 59th branch — this time in the Bronx. The shares have acted a bit better lately and are currently at this year's high.

The climate for bank stocks has not been particularly favorable this year, partly because the government clamped a lid on the prime rate. Your company is ably managed and unless your holdings are disproportionate, I would sit tight and wait for expansion to pay off.

Q "I am curious about your opinion on utility stocks in thinly populated areas of the U.S., where an increase of several hundred thousand people in a decade means a relatively large population increase. I refer in particular to Idaho Power, Montana Power and Utah Power & Light. Which, if any, of these stocks do you like for growth over the years?" D.G.

A I congratulate you on sound thinking. I like the stocks you mention, as well as all other utilities serving rapidly expanding areas. Idaho Power & Light has raised earnings and dividends in each of the past ten years. Montana Power has lifted earnings in each year of the past decade and has declared periodic dividend raises. Utah Power & Light has a good record, though not equal to the others. I would buy Idaho or Montana Power, and if it came down to a single stock, I would pick Montana.

Mr. Spear cannot answer all mail personally but will answer all questions possible in his column.

Dr. Hazenbush Is Named to Fund Post by College

HARTFORD, Conn.—Dr. Arthur W. Hazenbush, of Kingston has been named a national vice chairman of the Medical Alumni Association of Trinity College, it was announced by Dr. Joseph N. Russo of Hartford.

Dr. Hazenbush, a 1935 graduate of Trinity, is one of some 600 alumni who are now in the medical profession.

The "Medical Alumni" is seeking $300,000 from its membership to name three laboratories in memory of the professors who inspired them as undergraduates and who were chiefly responsible for establishment of a quality pre-medical curriculum at the 142-year old college.

The laboratories will be in the $240,000 Life Sciences Center which the college will build and will be named in memory of Professors Thomas Hume Bissonnette, (1885-1951) biology professor internationally known for his work in genetics; Frederick Walton Carpenter, (1876-1924) world famous zoologist, and Horace Cheny Swan, (1879-1959) professor of physiology, hygiene and medical director who served Trinity for 43 years.

If you're hesitant about visiting a broker for the first time...

There's no need to be. Our aim is to help you invest sensibly, and we think it's important to make you feel at ease in our office.

It's understandable that some may wonder whether they have enough money to interest a broker, or be embarrassed about not knowing investment terms. Or they may be hesitant because they don't have a clear goal in mind, or knowledge of any particular stock, or feel a visit is an obligation to buy. That's when they need the help we can give.

A registered representative in our office will be glad to discuss your situation. And there's no charge for this service.

So please feel free to visit us at your convenience.

How "rich" are investors?... how many own stocks listed on New York Stock Exchange?

This year, it is likely that more than one million Americans will become shareowners for the first time in their lives. If you're one of them, you'll be joining a group estimated at more than 17 million.

Would it surprise you to know that there are more shareowners in this country than labor union members, or college students, or farmers?

How "rich" are investors? An Exchange study indicates the median income of shareowning families is $8,600, and about half are in the $5,000-to-$10,000 bracket. More women than men own stocks—and, grouped by occupation, housewives lead the list in number. An estimated 11 million men and women own stocks listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

If investing is on your mind, you may be wondering: "How do I begin?" We recommend the following.

First, make a get-acquainted call on a registered representative of a member firm. There are some 3,400 offices and you'll usually find "Members New York Stock Exchange" on their doors and windows. Both the firm and its registered representatives have had to meet Exchange qualifications and are subject to Exchange rules. (One regulation is that registered representatives must be full-time brokers.)

Start by discussing your investment goal. Do you want dividends to bolster your regular income? Or long-term growth in the value of your stock? Or bonds, perhaps, for the greater safety of principal and stability of income they often provide.

Second, how much should you invest? Nothing, until you have provided for emergencies and for the usual expenses that most people have.

Third, what to buy? And how to buy? Certainly not on unsupported rumors or fragments of news. Ask your registered representative for the most factual account he can give you of a company's earnings, dividend record, financial condition, and possibly news about management. Ask for his judgment to season your own.

Finally, remember that stock prices go up and down for many reasons, and neither facts nor the coolest judgment can eliminate the risk.

The purpose of investing, of course, is to improve your financial position. That is why it is so important to know that there are right and wrong ways to go about it.

Vandals Damage 52 New Autos on Train Car Carrier

Fifty-two new automobiles were damaged early today by shotgun blasts, stones and bricks thrown at car carriers on a West Shore Division freight train proceeding south from Selkirk to Weehauken, N. J.

The train left Selkirk at 1:46 a. m. and arrived at Weehauken at 5:20 a. m. The train passed through Kingston between 3:05 and 3:12 a. m.

Police are seeking witnesses who might have seen or heard shotgun blasts during the hours mentioned. A brick with Hutton Brick Co. markings was found inside one of the cars.

Residents of Kingston who may have seen or heard about the incident are asked to notify Kingston Police Department. Residents outside the city can notify the state police or Ulster County Sheriff's Office.

The damage to the automobiles was on the west side of the track, according to Det. Guernsey Burger of Kingston Police Department. The car carriers haul about 18 automobiles and the train consists of about 25 to 30 cars. Most of the damage was to cars on the lower deck.

Doors, sides, windshields and windows were damaged on the automobiles.

Latin-American Reaction Mixed on Intervention

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Latin-American reaction to the U.S. intervention in the Dominican Republic has been mixed, but so far there have been few anti-U.S. demonstrations.

Argentina and Brazil, South America's largest countries, approved the U.S. action, including President Johnson's request that Latin-American countries send troops to the Dominican Republic.

Informed sources in Buenos Aires said Argentina would send a military force to the war-torn Caribbean island if the Organization of American States approves the U.S. request.

The OAS, meeting in Washington Monday, put off a decision on the American request. The Brazilian government issued a statement approving the landings of U.S. troops to protect the lives of Americans in Santo Domingo.

Former Costa Rican President Jose Figueres left San Jose for Washington to present a Costa Rican government proposal. Observers said it might include a suggestion to put the Dominican Republic temporarily under international administration.

Move Underway To Organize Some Hospital Help

A move to organize the non-professional help in Kingston and Poughkeepsie hospitals is under way.

Following approval last week of State legislation which would allow collective bargaining among hospital help under the City of New York, Jesse Perry, president of Local 200, Building Services Employees Union, AFL-CIO, has announced that meetings will be held in Kingston and Poughkeepsie to discuss the matter.

A meeting has been called for May 12 in Poughkeepsie and on May 13 in Kingston. Perry said it was not anticipated that the institutions would be picketed but indicated that if failure to negotiate develops, picketing may be resorted to. It was indicated that a request for election of a bargaining agency would be made.

Cortland Gets Advance

WASHINGTON (AP)—Community Facilities Administration approval of a $37,000 advance to Cortland, N.Y., to plan a new city hall was announced today by Rep. Samuel S. Stratton, D-N.Y. The project will cost $600,000.

Must Halt Reds: Most of SEATO; Differences Grow

LONDON (AP)—A majority of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization, with France and Pakistan in the position of dissenters, agreed today that Communist penetration of South Viet Nam must be halted once and for all.

But differences of views within the alliance grew more marked as the problem of Southeast Asia's future came under review in a closed meeting.

Pakistani Foreign Minister Zulfikar Ali Bhutto made a speech, understood to differ markedly from that of the other allies, which he insisted should not be reported.

Addresses by other delegates were relayed to newsmen by briefing officers, but no word was given out on the Pakistani speech. The French have only sent an observer, not a full delegation.

The eight SEATO allies were spurred by an American report that the North Vietnamese Communists appeared ready to end their hit-and-run guerrilla tactics and to take on the combined forces of South Viet Nam and the United States in pitched battle.

U.S. Undersecretary of State George W. Ball told the SEATO council Monday that a second North Vietnamese battalion had infiltrated across the 17th Parallel into South Viet Nam.

Ball made an urgent appeal for military assistance.

Is Badly Burned Stomping Out Fire

Vincent Kukla, 69, of Carol Road, Hopewell Junction, was critically burned Monday shortly after noon when his clothing caught fire as he threw a match in brush at his feet. He had been cutting wood when he stopped to light a cigarette. When he attempted to stamp out the fire his clothing caught fire and he was badly burned.

A passing motorist observed the fire and rescued Kukla from the blaze. He was taken to Vassar Hospital, Poughkeepsie, by ambulance. His condition was still critical today. The accident was investigated by state police from Fishkill.

Picket Construction

Pickets from the Building Trades Council were posted today at the construction of a new facility being built for Amerling Volkswagen Sales and Service of Port Ewen on Albany Avenue Extension near the Montgomery Ward store. The pickets are protesting wages and conditions by the Jennings Construction Company of Woodstock.

Stevenson Denies Plot Against Any Latin Countries

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.

(AP)—U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson prepared today a full-scale reply to Soviet charges that the United States has embarked on a "policy of naked force" designed to topple any Latin American government that does not please it.

In a four-hour Security Council session Monday, the chief U.S. delegate to the United Nations took the floor three times to dispute the Soviet and Cuban delegates. Stevenson promised he would answer their attack in detail at a later meeting.

Both Soviet Ambassador Nikolai T. Fedorenko and Cuban delegate Fernando Alvarez Tabio demanded that the council condemn the U.S. military action in the Dominican Republic and call for the immediate withdrawal of U.S. forces.

Stevenson told the council the U.S. action was taken "to protect the Dominican people from a Communist seizure of their country." He said the resources of the entire Western Hemisphere were being mobilized to this end.

Diplomats generally agreed that the council would brush off the Soviet and Cuban demands and accept a U.S. proposal that the Dominican problem be left in the hands of the Organization of American States.

The council meeting was devoted entirely to speeches by Fedorenko, Stevenson and Alvarez. Rarely has a session heard so much name-calling and tough talk. Stevenson remarked that the Soviet attack on the United States was reminiscent of the Stalin era.

"The Latin American countries," said Fedorenko, "cannot fail to be shocked at this open reversion of American imperialism to the policy of naked force in Latin America."

Stevenson told the council that the United States acted because it had become clear that "Communist leaders, many trained in Cuba, have taken increasing control of what was initially a democratic movement, just as they once did in Cuba."

"The American nations will not permit the establishment of another Communist government in the Western Hemisphere," Stevenson said.

Area Attorneys To Attend May 8 Seminar at Marist

Attorneys from Ulster, Dutchess and Orange Counties will "go back to school" Saturday, May 8, when the Dutchess County Bar Association opens its first full-day session for continuing legal education at Marist College, North Road, Poughkeepsie.

This will be the first of a series of monthly classes, seminars and enactment of classroom procedures to be conducted at Marist. The series will be sponsored by the New York State Bar Association of Ulster, Dutchess and Orange Counties.

In the past these seminars have been conducted in New York and other of the large cities of the state with occasional exceptions.

The May 8 session will cover estate planning for estates in the $20,000-$100,000 range. Scheduled to appear at sessions at 9 a. m. and continuing to 4:30 p. m. are Henry R. McCarthy of Syracuse; Herbert E. Cohen of Newkirk Associates, Albany; John E. Swett of Rochester; Eugene M. Karp, Albany Law School professor and also practicing attorney.

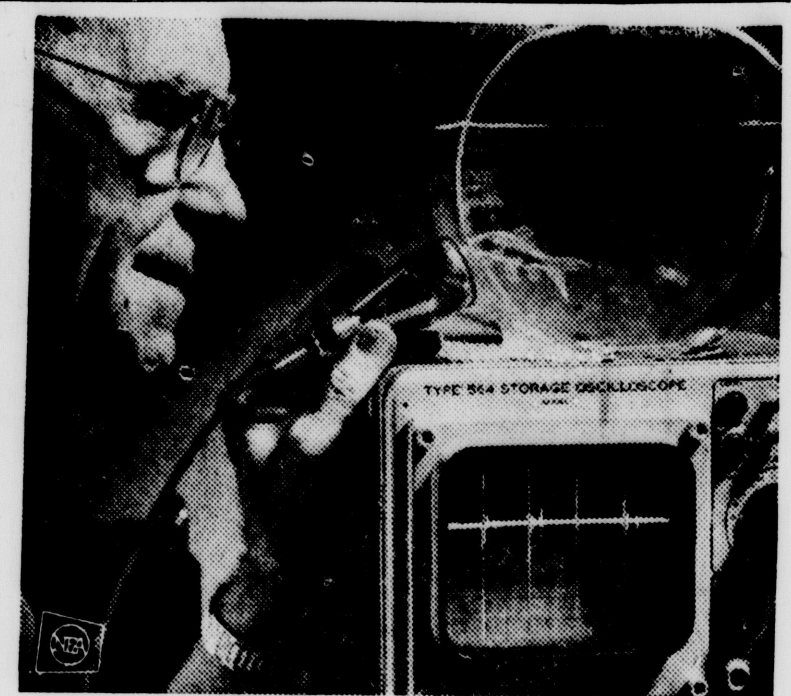

Other sessions dealing with other topics are planned on a monthly basis.

Members of the Ulster Bar Association are reminded by the Bar Committee on Public Relations that reservations will be limited to 125 and that reservations will be on a first come, first served basis and must be in by May 6.

Ulster Vols Battle Blaze Four Hours

Members of Ulster Hose No. 5, Town of Ulster battled a brush and woods fire Monday afternoon for some four hours. The alarm was sounded at 5:25 p. m. and it was not until 9 p. m. that the firemen secured. An area of some 15 acres was burned over in the woods back of the 9W Drive-in Theater. No buildings were involved.

Ulster County Fire Control also reported brush and grass fires had called out the firemen at West Hurley, Phoenicia, Bloomington, The Vly-Atwood and Cedar Grove.

SCIENCE SNOOPS—The goldfish, which never had much privacy anyway, has even less these days, thanks to James R. Richards, a sound engineer at the Naval Research Laboratory in Washington. Richards is the inventor of a device that can record clearly the small gill movements of a goldfish and even monitor the heartbeat of human embryos as early as 10 weeks after conception.

Capitol News in Brief

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Senate watchdog committee went behind closed doors today to investigate what effect the Viet Nam war has had on the Army's combat readiness in other areas.

Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., described the probe by his Senate Armed Services Preparedness Investigating Committee as possibly the most important hearing it will undertake this year.

A report of the committee's findings ultimately will be filed with the Senate. Stennis said the nature of the inquiry requires, however, that the hearings be secret.

WASHINGTON (AP)—State Department lawyers expect court action to be stepped up against some 150 students who traveled to Cuba in 1963 and 1964 despite a department ban on such trips.

Their cases have been held up pending a Supreme Court decision involving an appeal by one of them.

The Supreme Court ruled Monday that the secretary of state did have authority to bar
